Doepke also announced that, in 1953, the firm produced hundreds of thousands of toys, breaking all previous records. By the first of January, 1954, total production of all Model Toys since their inception in 1946, passed the 1,500,000 mark. Each is a steel scale reproduction authorized by the original manufacturer and equipped with major operating features of the real machines.

"Do-It-Yourself" MG Kit for $10.95 from Doepke

Recognizing the desire of many sports car owners, older boys, and father and son teams, for an accurate, metal model of a famous imported automobile, the Charles William Doepke Mfg Company of Dayton, Ohio, has created an interesting "do it yourself" kit that is simple to assemble

Styled after the MG automobile, the new kit can reportedly be put together in an evening with a screwdriver. Its fine detail plus assembly ease provides a creative outlet for boys 10 years and older, who will probably find that Dad wants to help a little too much. Sports car enthusiasts figure to welcome the new kit as a small 1/16 scale model that can decorate their homes, club rooms, or club shops

The kit is the first of its type produced by the company, which has made over 1,500,000 Model Toys that are accurate steel scale models of construction machines and fire engines. All essential details have been retained in the sturdy, durable 14-inch long operating model. From radiator grille to spare tire, the major lines and parts have been faithfully followed. Ninety per cent of the parts are metal Typifying the completeness of the model is the detail of the underbody. A steel chassis supports the body while a base plate running three quarters of the length between axles has a simulated transmission housing and forms the car's floor.

Each rear wheel has its own leaf spring attached to the axle which is mounted on special supports connected to the chassis The springs permit the rear wheels to move up and down exactly as does its big counterpart and the front wheels steer authentically

Assembly is a cinch if you know which end of a screwdriver to use. The body is one-piece, die-cast metal. Thus the major part is complete with a base prime finish Here self-expression has a free rein in final finishing. Screws are used to attach approximately 50 other parts to the body With this method, the car can be built and re-built as many times as desired, multiplying the pleasure gained from small scale reproduction

All major "top of the car" parts are plated for chrome appearance plus protection of the base metal. This includes bumpers, wheels, windshield, radiator, lights and steering post. The seats are plastic while the simulated cover for the top is made of leather-textured aluminum

Chassis parts, axles, springs, and base plate are finished in a black matte color that prevents rusting Wheels are made of aluminum while the solid rubber tires accurately reflect realism in design

The new model can be motorized using standard small scale motors now available These motors, however, are not supplied by the company. Enough space is above the rear axle for the motor and direct power transmission to the rear wheels. The motor can be attached any time since the car can be taken apart by simply removing screws. Here the owner's personal ideas can be fully applied.

The New MT kit will retail for $10.95 It will be available in retail stores by midsummer Bennett Company, publishers) and "Adventures In Scrap Crafts" (Greenberg Publishers). Mr. Dank announces he will continue to work directly with children, with the ultimate aim of manufacturing new products which will offer a maximum contribution to the development of creative instincts and the building up of lifelong hobbies for their young users.

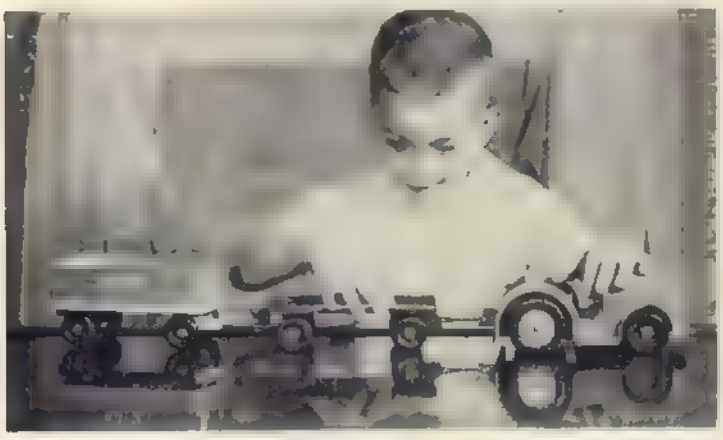
New Scale Model Toy

Hauling air freight and baggage around make-believe airports is the job of a new steel scale Model Toy made by Charles William Doepke Mfg. Co., Rossmoyne, Ohio.

The new three-unit toy is an accurate reproduction of a Clarktor CT-120 tractor made by Clark Equipment Company, Buchanan, Michigan. It consists of the tow tractor and two freight trailers with self-locking couplings.

Designed for youngsters in the two to ten-year age group, the new toy can be used as a pull toy by younger children, or as a companion to other Model Toys by older children.



The heavy duty red die cast tractor retains all the major features of the Clarktor in one-sixteenth scale. Fenders, seat, motor housing, steering wheel, tires, and wheels have all been reproduced so a youngster can recognize the real equipment on his next visit to his hometown airport. The front of the tractor has simulated recessed headlights, the cross-hatch design of the radiator grille and the trademark, "Clark." A rectangular opening near the bottom is included for attaching cord to make the new item a pull toy. The two large rear wheels and two smaller front wheels are made of heavy rubber.

Made of 18-Gauge Steel

Each of the two freight and baggage trailers is made of 18-gauge welded steel. The self-locking couplings let the trailers "track" as the tow tractor is pushed or pulled. To hold baggage, there is a one-piece, interchangeable aluminum body. This body fits tightly into either of the two trailers and is easily changed from one to the other. Adding another authentic note is the decal of a major airline. Six scheduled passenger-carrying airlines have authorized the use of their trademarks on the new toy. Wheels are made of hard rubber. Each trailer is finished in brightly colored baked enamel. One trailer is yellow and the other is green.

In announcing the new toy, Frederick W. Doepke, vice-president in charge of sales, said: "This is our first new toy for 1954. To meet the needs of our wholesalers and retailers, production of this Clarktor will begin in January. This new toy will meet the needs of those youngsters in the lower age group whose parents have requested realistic, simple, and durable toys. Boys and girls in the group from six to ten years old will find the same accurate reproduction they have in their other Model Toys. Our entire present line will be continued in 1954, thus providing nine different toys for retailers. This is the most complete line we have ever offered to the public. Our prices remain unchanged, as they have been since 1946, thus making Model Toys a better buy than ever for the general public."

Lowest Priced "Model Toy"

Doepke pointed out that the new Clarktor is the lowest priced authentic Model Toy ever offered. It will retail for $9.95. "Despite this relatively low price, none of the quality and construction that mark Model Toys has been sacrificed," he said. "Our continually expanding production facilities, coupled with a stepped-up program of engineering development, enables us to produce this toy in a price bracket that will not only meet public demand, but will aid the sale of our other toys."

Doepke also announced that, in 1953, the firm produced hundreds of thousands of toys, breaking all previous records. By the first of January, 1954, total production of all Model Toys since their inception in 1946, passed the 1,500,000 mark. Each is a steel scale reproduction authorized by the original manufacturer and equipped with major operating features of the real machines.

New Lido Line Greatly Enlarged

THE Lido Toy Company, 321 Rider Avenue, New York, held a preview of its 1954 line at the annual sales conference in New York's Copacabana, on December 28, 1953. There's a Big IF in Gift-Wrapping!

"Add G and T to IF and you've got GIFT," says George A. Taffel, president of Taffel Bros., Inc., gift-wrap ribbon house. "As a matter of fact, stores need a lot of 'GIT' these days to 'git' their share of today's expanding gift-wrap volume. It can be had, but you must know how."

According to Mr. Taffel, the IF in gIFt-wrapping is uncovered when it comes to knowing how to set up a gift-wrap department, knowing where to place it, knowing how to train clerks to wrap economically as well as beautifully, knowing how gift-wrap ribbons can be atuned to gift seasons (Easter, Mother's Day, Father's Day, Graduation, Bridal, Back-To-School, Christmas and Hallowe'en, plus such year-'round occasions as birthdays, weddings, anniversaries, baby births, and so on) as well as the "personality" of the store.

Mr. Taffel offers free advice and counsel to stores which feel they're missing something (and they are—profits!) without a properly set-up gift-wrap department. Write him at 95 Madison Ave., New York 16, N. Y.

New Fisher-Price Representative

LEWIS SMITH

As pictured above, Fisher-Price's "Timmy Turtle" must have particularly endeared himself to "Lew" after he went through his musical paces for Lew's wife and two children.

Evans' Bicycle Salesmen Pose with Top Models

The Evans company, located in Plymouth, Mich., recently acquired the Colson Corporation's Cycle Division, Elyria, Ohio, and has moved all manufacturing and headquarters operations to Plymouth. The Evans company is now starting production of a complete line of bicycles and velocipedes.

The bicycle pictured here is the top luxury bike in the new Evans line. It is finished in emerald green "flam" finish, has hand-caliper brakes and a three-speed rear axle. One of the most distinctive features of the bicycle is the use of the "Evanair" front suspension. Engineered along the principle of torsion bar and trailing link suspension found in many sports cars, the design permits the front wheel to ride freely in a flexible cradle. Road shocks transmitted directly to the front fork and frame of the conventional bicycle are absorbed by the "Evanair" front suspension.

The velocipede in the photo is also the top model in the three-wheeled vehicle line. It, too, is finished in the deluxe "flam," in this case an iridescent blue with chrome finder trim and scuff plates. In addition, the Evans company has been licensed to manufacture a line of children's vehicles under the "Ding Dong School" name. Velocipedes in this line will occasionally be featured on the nationwide pre-school children's television program, presided over by Miss Frances on the NBC net work.

The Evans Wheeled Goods Division sales staff pictured here are, left to right: I. H. Herman—Maryland, Delaware, District of Columbia, North Carolina, Virginia, southern New Jersey, eastern Pennsylvania and West Virginia (two counties); L. G. Barrow—Connecticut, Rhode Island, Maine, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Vermont and New York State (eastern half, Westchester up); R. H. Kelly—Indiana (three counties), North Dakota, Minnesota, South Dakota, Wisconsin and northern Illinois (north of Peoria); T. H. Hoefer—Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Mississippi, South Carolina and Tennessee; Abe Linicki—entire New York City, Long Island and counties of New York State and northern New Jersey; John Huggins—sales manager of the division; J. M. Gilmore—Missouri, Kansas, Iowa, Nebraska and part of southern Illinois; T. R. Hershey—Maryland, West Virginia, western Pennsylvania, New York, eastern Ohio and Kentucky (three counties); and R. R. Tilgren—Indiana, Kentucky, Michigan and western Ohio. Messrs. Barrow, Kelly and Tilgren are newcomers to the sales staff. The others had represented Colson's sales staff for many years.

New Toys on Parade

Jumbo Anagrams

A unique educational game for children, Jumbo Anagrams, has been introduced to the market by ED-U-CARDS, INC., 184 Duane St., New York City.

Consisting of large, colorful, plastic-coated letter blocks with lower case letters imprinted in the same style as is accepted in the primary school system, Jumbo Anagrams is a simple word game which calls for the creation of words by trading and picking letters from other players. The reverse sides of the blocks have bright interlocking colors which, when joined with other blocks, form interesting and colorful mosaic designs.

The game also has a draw-string bag for keeping the parts when not in use. Jumbo Anagrams retails at $1.50.

The game, with two other new Ed-U-Card products, was tested recently by groups of "advisory counselors" between the ages of 5 and 9 who indicated a high percentage of "learning" reaction as well as a "pleasure" reaction. The other two games are "Piggy Bank" and "Rootie Kazootie," both of which are card games retailing at 25c each.

"Babeez"

E-Z PRODUCTS, 23 E. 22nd St., New York City 10, has a new, patented, all-rubber combination pacifier and teething ring.

The nipple and shield are all in one piece, made of pure gum amber rubber. The teething ring is of rubber, in pink or blue with matching color cord attached. The Babeez combination pacifiers and teethers are packed individually, in attractive display boxes, with an unbreakable acetate window.

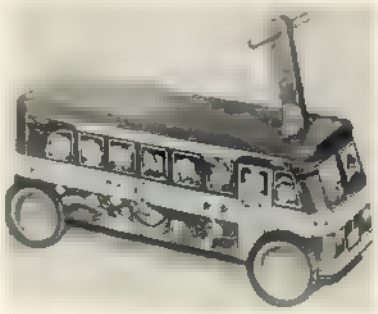
There are one dozen to a counter display, in an assortment of six pink and six blue to a container.

School Bus

One of the new Gong Bell items is brightly and realistically lithographed to look just like a real school bus. It can be pushed, pulled, or ridden.

The toy is 20" long, with rubber tires, a removable top for loading, and gongs in all four wheels to provide plenty of music, and play appeal. Each School Bus is packed in a corrugated box. A standard carton containing four toys weighs approximately 27 pounds.

School Bus is manufactured by GONG BELL MANUFACTURING CO., East Hampton, Conn.

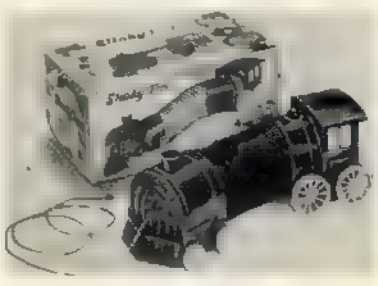


"Slinky Train"

JAMES INDUSTRIES, INC., originators of Slinky, the walking spring toy, has introduced the Slinky Train, a cleverly-designed pull toy.

The train is an old-time locomotive, made of strong three-color plastic in two pieces. Between the front of the locomotive and the cab, a full-size Slinky is substituted for the "boiler" of the little engine. As a child pulls the Slinky Train it expands, then comes together with a wiggle and a "whoosh." The motion of the toy is said to match its fascination for youngsters the Slinky toy.

The Slinky Train is packed in a colorful display box, and will retail in the $1.98 range.



Felix the Cat

The IRWIN CORP., 200 Fifth Ave., New York City, has brought out the latest in its line of "semi-flex squeeze-squeek" toys, a 'Felix-the-Cat' in washable vinylite. BOXES created for three toys and games manufacturers have won awards in the fourth annual Set-Up Paper Box Competition, sponsored by the National Paper Box Manufacturers Assn. First awards in the Toys and Games Division went to The Box Shop, Inc., New Haven, Conn., for its deluxe Scrabble package, an instant eye-catcher. Wrapped in a fire-engine red leather grain pyroxylin-coated material, the box can be washed, will not discolor, and will wear long. The padded, hinged cover has a luxurious feel, in keeping with the deluxe version of the game. A plastic coated snap fastener is used.

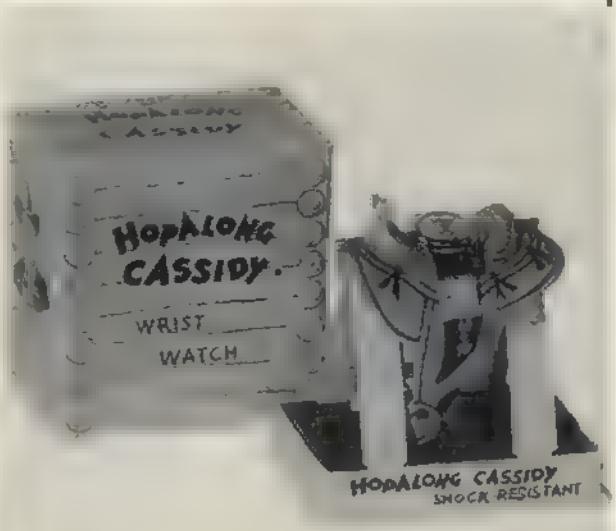
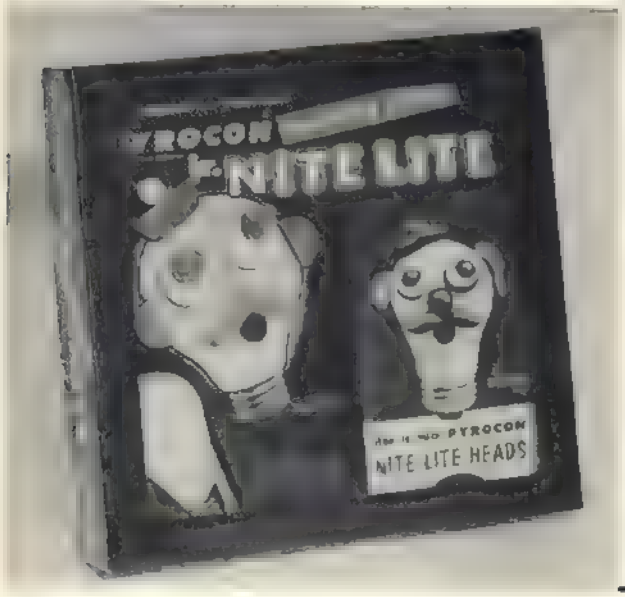
A novel display box cleverly built to highlight the western theme of the product merited two awards for Heminway Corp., Waterbury, Conn. The package, designed for the Hopalong Cassidy wrist watch manufactured by The U. S. Time Corp., won second award in the "best display box" classification, and second award in the toys and games division.

The box has a die-cut saddle and carpenter's horse which lock into a platform insert. An inexpensive wrist watch strapped to the saddle creates a real impact on the youngsters.

Honorable mention in toys and games went to L. Gordon & Son, Inc., Baltimore, Md., for the package it manufactured for General Glaze Corp.'s Jr. Nite Lite. The novelty lamp is appealingly displayed through a wide acetate window. Colorful mounted plastic pieces and printing on the platform insert are sharply framed by a dense black window frame. The product is completely in view. A sales message is printed in two colors on all sides of the box and then repeated on the platform insert.

The competition was participated in by one-third more of the membership than in previous contests held by NPBMA, and there was said to be marked improvement in construction and sales appeal appearance of the entries.





Winning boxes were selected in March at the Association's headquarters in Philadelphia by a panel of designers, users and makers of set-up boxes, who judged them for a score of End Uses, based on such qualities as protection of product, appropriateness of the package, display value, brand identification, convenience in packing and in inspection by customer, and sales appeal. Entries were also judged for Best Surface Design and Execution, Superiority of Construction, and Best Display.

All entries were exhibited at the 36th annual convention of the Association, May 16 to 19 at the Drake Hotel, Chicago, where prize winners were announced and awards distributed to the respective paper box manufacturers—one for them and one for each customer. The boxes will also be exhibited at divisional meetings of the National, including the Pacific coast conference this month.

Games with Creative Skill Feature Harett-Gilmar '54 Line

A line of "quality games with maximum creative skill" has been introduced to the 1954 market by Harett-Gilmar, Inc., 34-11 Far Rockaway Blvd., Far Rockaway, L. I., N. Y.

Topping the Harett-Gilmar 98-cent line of colorful activity games, puzzles, quizzes, and mazes is Howdy Doody Electric Doodler. Following this game is a series of "games with imagination" based on popular children's classics such as "Tom Sawyer," "Treasure Island," and "Pinocchio." An unusual board game is "Traffic Jam," based on auto driving operations.

Six Years Old

Harett-Gilmar is headed by Sy Blum, Gil Felsenthal, and Marty Lewis, a youthful hard-hitting trio which began operations six years ago in Felsenthal's basement. Their first item was a line of novelty nite-lites, their production department was the top of a ping pong table and their capital investment totalled $27!

The big break for the three men came when a major department store ran a full page four-color advertisement of the Harett-Gilmar items, and resulted in a sell-out.

According to Marty Lewis, "when that happened, what was more or less a hobby became a full-fledged business."

"I like Jackson's showmanship in selling. He never confines his sales to just the juvenile trade."

After they introduced a line of illuminated Christmas specialties in 1951, Harett-Gilmar jumped its volume to a point beyond the capacity of the small loft. As a result, they moved to the 10,000 square foot plant they now occupy, in June, 1952.

The first "Wiry Dan" electric game was brought out in October, 1952, in the shape of "Know America," and by Toy Fair time in '53 a full line of 98-cent electric games was in production.

The three men bring to the toy field considerable experience in engineering, and a sound knowledge of the technical background. Their games are all pretested by youngsters of all age levels.

Representatives

Harett-Gilmar is represented throughout the country by the following: Bill Berman and Bob Davin in Boston; Jack Chartoff, New York; Jack Robbins, Philadelphia; Ray Martineau, Florida; Harry Ichiyasu, Chicago; Mike Connor, Cincinnati; Bill Starr, Dallas; Elliott Magraw, Minneapolis; Art Engel, Kansas City; Dave Altshuler, Los Angeles; Harry Gould, Louisville, Ky.; and D. D. Feldman, Montreal.

Milton Bradley's New Quiz Game, "SWAYZE"

MILTON BRADLEY Company's new 1954 game line will fulfill dramatically the company trademark, "key to fun and learning."

"Swayze," the only news quiz game that's always as new as today's headlines, authored by topflight newscaster John Cameron Swayze, will lead off the Milton Bradley hit parade of 26 new game and educational toy items which will be previewed for the American Toy Fair.

Mr. Swayze, one of the most popular of the news commentators, with an estimated listening audience of 40 million weekly, has developed a unique news quiz board game that's ideal for sophisticated parties or family competition. "Swayze" makes it exciting fun for a twosome or a crowd to hopscotch the world of headlines in sports, economics, diplomacy and society.

JOHN CAMERON SWAYZE, top-flight tele-newscaster, with an estimated listening audience of 40 million weekly, has authored Milton Bradley's newest game, "Swayze." The game provides exciting fun for parties or family competition, and retails at $3.

Played on World Map

"Swayze" is played on a 2½ foot map of the world board with clocks indicating international time zones. Swayze's News Almanac, listing 500 major news items, is provided for quiz masters who prefer to vary the competition with past news events as well as today's headlines. The game also includes a Spinner News Clock, two geographical locators, and a question counter. Swayze will retail at $3.00.

Another unique, wit-challenging new Bradley game is "Pathfinder," which introduces a new technique of play that exercises players' sense of logic but does not involve vocabulary. This easy-to-learn, easy-to-play game of maneuver will intrigue older children as well as adults. Ivory plastic tiles, with red and black line decorations, are the playing pieces. These are routed toward high point scoring areas while players attempt to block opponents. "Pathfinder" contains 164 ivory-colored plastic tiles in a cellophane-wrapped tray and a smartly styled playing board. "Pathfinder" will retail for $3.00.

Pop-Up Store Game

A third new game member of the "Milton Bradley key to learning" group is the "Pop Up Store Game," based on a completely new, patented game principle. This new Milton Bradley game teaches children how to get the most for their money. The board pops up into two colorful modern stores, a candy store with a soda fountain, and a toy store. Unique construction permits players to move about freely inside the store. Temptations are great—to buy candy, soda, ice cream and toys. The winner is the one who keeps within his budget and finishes his shopping list first. A large supply of play money, including five and one dollar bills, nickels, dimes, quarters and half-dollars, is included. There are four playing pieces, 16 shopping cards, a colorful spinner, and an 18½-inch-square folding board with the exclusive double pop-up feature. "Pop Up Store" will retail for $2.50.

Keyston Bets Half-Million Cowboy's Here to Stay

THAT RIDER of the purple sage—that dungaree-clad hero with his thumbs looped through his belt links,—the American cowboy, will permanently, or for the next few decades anyway continue to enjoy a romantic appeal amongst the nation's children. So believe Keyston Brothers, outfitters for his imitators, the riders of the backyard corral. And they believe it strongly enough to wager what will probably amount to over half a million dollars during 1954

Keyston has just put up some $400,000 for a new 44,000 square-foot factory in Santa Clara, California, devoted almost exclusively to the manufacture of cowboy and cowgirl equipment, junior grade. The remainder of the wager will be entered in ledger books under such headings as "moving," "operational expenses," purchases of raw materials, and promotion and advertising

The tradition of the American cowboy, believe the Keystons, will remain alive because he is an integral part of American history. His romantic appeal means the chance to develop the child in three ways socially, by encouraging group play; physically, by stimulating activity; and, mentally, by creating opportunities for healthful competition

The manufacture of the entire line of Lasso 'Em Bill cowboy-cowgirl outfits has been moved from San Francisco to the new plant, some 55 miles south. The greater area has also permitted the introduction of a new line called "Junior Agent," consisting of four junior police officer outfits. The only other items manufactured in the Santa Clara plant are leather belts

No manufacturing is now being done in San Francisco, which will continue as the main headquarters of Keyston, with show rooms and warehouse space only. The production of Keyston's leather products for full-grown cowboys and other adults is being carried on in the Denver, Colorado, plant of the Herman Heiser Company, a wholly-owned Keyston subsidiary

The new plant is expected to increase the capacity of Keyston by about one-third. Since some 600,000 junior cowboys are now rounding up the dogies with 200,000 of their sisters, as a result of purchases made in 1953, it is expected that production will go well over a million during the current year

The area devoted to manufacturing has increased from 32,000 square feet in San Francisco, but the factory is located on a single floor instead of three, and so permits greater operating efficiency. Movement in the plant is generally from west to east. Deliveries are received at the rear of the west end of the plant. Fabric for the cowboy outfits is brought to the front or south side of the plant, where are located the sewing, ornamentation, riveting and spotting operations. Leather goods move in a parallel direction down the center for processing, and belts are prepared at the rear or north side

The boxing section is located about two-thirds of the way toward the eastern end of the plant. Finished goods are stored near the east end, where is located the shipping dock. Unfinished products and boxes are stored along the north wall. Offices, the maintenance room, sales room, and others are located at the south end or front of the plant

Several new machines have been purchased by Keyston to increase the output, and the employee-staff will be increased. A number of spotting machines, formerly powered by foot, have been replaced by electrically powered machines. These are the machines that put the shiny silver-like dots on the holsters, chaps, or vests.

David Keyston, nephew of president Fred Keyston and grandson of one of Keyston Brothers' two founders, has been appointed manager of the new Santa Clara plant. He has been in training for this position for four years, having served in various capacities in the San Francisco plant. Factory superintendent is Charles Segali, veteran of 20 years with Keyston, who held the same title in San Francisco.

The factory building was completed in December, but Keyston did not make its move until the slack season in February. By April the plant was in full production

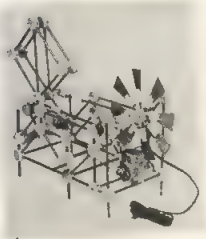
Toy Tinkers Brings Back Three Pre-War Numbers



At the Toy Fair in New York, The Toy Tinkers Division of A. G. Spalding, Evanston, Ill., re-introduced three items which were part of their line prior to World War II and which had been discontinued only because materials were critical at that time. They are being remade, it is announced, because of the many requests in the trade.

The first of these items is Master "Tinkertoy," a large set with a real two speed electric motor which gives a child the opportunity to build models with exciting action. The name "Master" is new and the item is newly packaged in a set up box with an attractive display card inside the lid. The motor is of entirely new design, safe construction, and carries the U. L. seal of approval. The box measures 16¼" long and 9" wide by 2½' deep. The set is designed to retail at $9.95.

The other two items are a pair of wooden bead dolls, "Tom and Belle Tinker." These cute carriage or crib toys will be remembered, the company states, by many of today's parents as some of their most cherished playthings. They are of unbreakable construction and finished in pastel colors that are thoroughly waterproof and safe. They have the Parents' seal of approval. Each toy comes attractively packaged in a window display box 7½"x4"x1¾" and retails at $1.

The Toy Tinkers Division of A. G. Spalding have illustrated these new items in a new full-color four page catalog which also includes their standard line of construction sets—Junior, Wonder, Special, Senior and Deluxe. The company offers these catalogs as advertising aids and invites requests for their use as inserts.

AMF COMPLETES PURCHASE OF BMC MFG. CORPORATION

American Machine & Foundry Company's purchase of all the capital stock and debentures of BMC Manufacturing Corporation, Binghamton, N. Y., manufacturer of juvenile wheel goods, was recently consummated in New York.

AMF will exchange a maximum of 39 102 shares of its common stock for all of BMC's capital stock and debentures, the exact number of AMF shares subject to adjustment depending upon the net worth of BMC as determined by the final audit, AMF President Morehead Patterson said.

It also produces pressure lock wrenches. LAND OF THE MIGHTY
Mixed-Up Forest

AN appealing mixture of fantasy, humor, and imagination characterizes the newest hit children's television show over the ABC network, "The Adventures of Blinkey," seen 15 minutes a week around the country.

This fresh approach to children's programming features a new twist on an old idea: the central character, "Blinkey," starts out the show as a living boy (the only "live" character on the show) and winds up as a puppet after he is transported through space into the "land of the Mighty Mixed-Up Forest."

"Blinkey" appeals to youngsters in the audience as the prototype of the average kid, and the children can easily project themselves into the role as he encounters fantastic adventures in the enchanted forest.

"Blinkey," an Engaging Puppet

Headed by "Blinkey" himself, who is an engaging puppet with tousled blond hair, a snub nose, a disarming grin and big round eyes, the cast of puppet characters includes "Bookworm," a pedantic and learned professor who operates a magic "Book-O-Mat," which produces books of all kinds; "Gargoyle," assistant to the "What Not Tree" and superintendent of the "Mighty Mixed-Up Forest," and the "What Not Tree," which is the symbol of democratic authority in this magic land; "Foggy the Bullfrog," and the nemesis of these characters, "Harpy the Witch."

The show has a "Wizard of Oz" type of atmosphere and story, with the live "Blinkey" transported from the world of reality into the realm of fantasy and in the process, changing into a puppet. Once there, his adventures concern the efforts of the inhabitants of the "Mighty Mixed-Up Forest" to suppress "Harpy the Witch" and her plots to rule the land.

Much interest has already been engendered in merchandising this popular show, and in answer to the many inquiries about licensing some of the characters for toy items, Blinkey Enterprises has said that it will be happy to cooperate with manufacturers in every way. The firm has worked out a dynamic merchandising program and offers its aid in designing and marketing the items.

Reason for Success

One of the reasons for "Blinkey's" great success is the original creator and writer of the show, Dr. Lucille Emerick, youthful author, educator, lecturer, and child pyschologist, who not only has a fertile imagination and the sure knowledge of what appeals to children, but who maintains close contact with child welfare and the problems that constantly confront the parents of today. Dr. Emerick stresses the "back to normal" approach to the modern child in her popular lectures to Parent-Teacher Associations, civic and church groups, and in her writings. She holds a bachelor of music, bachelor of science, master of arts and doctor's degrees, and is also a former professor at Guilford College, North Carolina. While there, Dr. Emerick supplemented her campus activities by supervising education on the elementary and high school levels in Guilford county schools and conducted seminars for teachers in remedial procedures.

The show is directed by Murray King.

In this announcement it was disclosed, too, that the new plant was another step forward in the progress and expansion planned by Leslie Henry. It will provide additional production facilities for manufacturing guns, holster sets, rifles and die cast toys and will enable Leslie-Henry to better meet the increased demand for their products. Extra floor space has been provided for carrying floor stock to assure prompt delivery on reorders. It was also stressed that the new plant, modern both on the inside and out, is designed so as to make possible the manufacture of all items under one roof

The company also announced the acquisition of a new steel plant in which they plan to manufacture steel parts and sewing machines, a new addition to the Leslie Henry line. The company is manufacturing a smaller machine at $2.98 retail as well as a larger model at $5.98. Both machines are made of sturdy steel: the $2.98 model is 8" long x 8" high x 4" wide; the larger model is 10" long x 7¾" high x 4½" wide. Made in attractive colors both machines are already being well received in the trade. In referring to this expansion program, Milton A. "Littlest Angel," 10½" Toddler

EXCITING news for toybuyers is the introduction by the Arranbee Doll Company of "Littlest Angel," a 10½ inch toddler doll that walks, sits, stands, turns her head, and has sleeping eyes and a lustrous Saran wig, to retail at only $2.98.

This is a companion doll to last year's sell-out promotional number, "Little Angel," the 12½ inch walking toddler about which Mildred Orr Hirth, of the F. G. Orr Company, Wichita, Kansas, said, "We sincerely believe 'Little Angel' is the best $3.98 doll we have ever had." H. Shlion, manager of the toy department of G. Fox & Co. in Hartford, Connecticut, reported: " 'Little Angel' proved to be our outstanding doll and sold as fast as we were able to stock it." I. E. Carlson, toybuyer of Schuster's, Milwaukee, said, "We believe that 'Little Angel' will be a terrific doll item again this year." Equally enthusiastic have been hundreds of other toybuyers who stocked 'Little Angel' last year, about the tremendous potential of the 12½ inch toddler at $3.98, and 10½ inch at $2.98.

Dollars for Dresses

Buyers particularly liked the additional dress dollar sales that "Little Angel" and "Littlest Angel" pull to their department. Both dolls are bundles of extra sales values. That's because once they've left the toy dealer's shelf, customers return again and again for additional garments, starting from 98 cents. "Littlest Angel" takes little display space, as orders are filled from dress stocks and the undressed doll stock beneath the counter.

Future sales are practically assured. For instance, when "Littlest Angel" sees her first robin, it's time to buy her a gardening outfit, consisting of brightly-checkered sun hat and overalls. When hot weather comes, it's time for bathing suits, and when it's raining outside, "Littlest Angel" can relax in her three-piece lounging outfit. Each and every costume is created in perfect detail, a miniature of the clothes actually seen along Fifth Avenue. But, "Littlest Angel" is no namby-pamby. She takes lots of good, hard play without the slightest wear and tear.

Arranbee has available to toybuyers everywhere a complete promotional kit on "Little Angel" and "Littlest Angel," including displays, newspaper mats, and radio scripts.

Other Arranbee Dolls

Along with an ever-expanding line of newly-designed doll garments—from ski wear to nurses' uniforms — Arranbee is going ahead with a full-scale promotional plan on its other new dolls for 1954. On July 19, "Rock-Me Baby" will make her debut in Life; she's the sensational baby doll who slowly closes her eyes as she's rocked gently to sleep in her own cradle-box. "Rock-Me Baby" is available in two sizes, two styles; in all vinyl; 17-inch at $9.98, 22-inch at $12.98, and with latex body, 17-inch at $7.98, 22-inch at $9.98.

Also due to arrive on the scene shortly is "Baby Bunting," dressed in a polka-dotted nighty, with the new all moulded vinyl body, coo voice, vinyl head, and sleeping eyes; washable from head to toe. In one size, 20-inch at $8.98.

"Baby Bunting" is also available dressed in lace-trimmed flannel bunting, latex body, coo voice, vinyl head, and sleeping eyes; washable from head to toe. In three sizes, 17-inch at $5.98, 19-inch at $7.98, and 22-inch at $9.98.

The Arranbee Doll Company maintains permanent showrooms at 200 Fifth Avenue, New York 10, New York.

a fluorescent light strip; the ceiling height, plus a sprinkler system, makes it impossible to install the baffle up over these side wall fixtures that we usually indicate.

(WA) 3, 4, and 5. These counter wall sections can be installed along this side wall section or, if it be considered impracticable, as they might obstruct the (C) aisle leading into the rear offices, side walls can be faced off with sheets of perforated masonite. These panels have machine-punched holes set on 1" centers, and many metal self-supports, price clips, merchandise holders and displayers can now be bought to insert in any of the holes to make trimming the wall sections an easy job.

Note the section marked, "Area for Santa Xmas promotions." This is the area used each Christmas selling season for the installation of a Santa Booth, etc., and all counters in this section can easily be moved to allow space for this important installation.

IF YOU plan to open a new store, or to remodel your present one, TOYS & NOVELTIES has arranged with the writer of these articles to work up a custom-designed scale fixture lay-out and to include actual construction detail blueprints for subscribers to our magazine.

This service is offered for a token fee of $25. We must have written permission to use the lay-out in some future issue of TOYS & NOVELTIES.

Make all checks out to James Kiley and mail to this office. Include a rough sketch of your store, giving measurements. Allow about two weeks for the plans to be worked up. Remember, the blueprints of these self-service type of fixtures will make it possible to build them locally at great savings.

Another good idea for the column sections over the counters is the perforated panels mentioned in a previous paragraph, with kiddie-appeal cut-outs attached to lend the necessary atmosphere to the entire toy department.

"Little Homemaker" Doll House

A NEW idea in doll houses was brought out recently by the Plastic Art Toy Corporation of America. Called the "Little Homemaker" doll house, it measures 38 by 18 inches. The roof is removable and made of impregnated polyester resin, coated with gravel and finished in bright yellow, to simulate a Bermuda-type roof. The edges of the roof are trimmed with clear pine painted white, to simulate the roof gutters. The walls of the house are made of high impact styrene and are designed in great detail. For example, two sides are molded to simulate clapboard, and two sides are molded to simulate stucco. Such details as an outdoor lamp, shutters, window boxes, workable doors, and trellises overlooking the patio, simulate realism. The base of the house is printed in four colors on 150-point Upson board to vary the effect of the different room floors. For example, the patio has a fieldstone effect. The house itself is easily assembled by means of corner clips which snap in place.

Outstanding Feature

One of the outstanding features of the item is the use of 14 polyethylene buttons which support the house. This prevents any scratching of table surfaces which the item may be on during play time. The house contains seven rooms of furniture, including: a kitchen, dining room, living room, bathroom, nursery, bedroom, and a patio. Many of the pieces have added play-value in that they have moving components. These consist of a crib, in the nursery, whose sides move up and down; the drawers of the highboy are removable; the bathinette is collapsible; the hamper top opens in the bathroom, the water closet seat can be lifted up and down; and the television set in the living room has a movable dial which shows colored pictures. The complete unit comes knocked down with an individual 200-pound test corrugated container with full instructions for easy assembly. Suggested retail price is $9.95.

WBAL-TV's "Romper Room" Reported "Hit" in Baltimore

By TOM WHITE

ONE day in Baltimore last month a five-year-old youngster begged her parents to let her say grace at the family meal and this is what came out:

"God is great, God is good, let us thank Him for our food; open your eyes, open your ears and here we go. Amen."

Somewhat dazed, her mother and father asked the girl where she learned that one.

Actually, any one of thousands of Baltimore children could have told them their daughter was confused and had linked the usual "grace" with a film cue used on one of the most successful television programs in the nation—WBAL-TV's "The Romper Room," sponsored by Reads' Drug Stores.

Broadcast from 9 to 10 A.M. Monday through Friday, "The Romper Room" has been playing in Baltimore for more than a year and now has expanded to stations WTAR-TV in Norfolk, Va., and WLBR-TV in Lebanon, Pa. It is a program designed for pre-school age children and its basic format calls for: a piano player; a teacher; and seven children ranging in age from four to under six years old.

In the course of each day's show, the youngsters are taught to sing, play games, use educational toys and finger paints and, through visual aids that make advice fun, taught to be neat, drink their milk and generally behave. Refreshments are served each morning consisting of milk ("Sealtest" in Baltimore) and cookies, but only after grace is said. Movie cartoons are shown (Film cue: "open your eyes, open your ears and here we go") and the children are read stories from "Little Golden Books," taught how to make things such as flowers out of Venida facial tissues, dolls out of pipe cleaners, or a chest of drawers out of an oatmeal box. Venida, incidentally, has developed a "Romper Room" facial tissue box.

Reaction to WBAL-TV's presentation of "The Romper Room" has been immense. It has maintained the highest daytime audience of any show in Baltimore, network or local, and consistently plays to over 12 per cent of the 523,366 TV sets in the metropolitan Baltimore area.

Nancy Rogers, known as "Miss Nancy" to the Baltimore children, makes frequent personal appearances around town. At each of the six of the Reads' stores she has visited she has drawn from 2,000 to 4,000 parents and children and when "Romper Room Day" was held at Gwynn Oak Park last summer attendance was clocked at over 10,000.

The question of "Romper Room's" ability to move merchandise can be answered at any one of the 52 Reads' Stores in Baltimore, but here is one immediate answer:

"Dear Sir:

I want to take this opportunity to congratulate you for your tremendous foresight in promoting the TV show 'Romper Room.' 'Slinky' sales have skyrocketed from the day we started to advertise through you. It is really fabulous.

The jobbers in Baltimore and Washington have never seen such a jump in their sales since you and your Company started 'Romper Room.'

Sincerely yours,
JAMES INDUSTRIES
Richard T. James, President"

PAYTON PRODUCTS MFG. "SIMMY," A CLIMBING MONKEY

Made by Payton Products, 200 Fifth Avenue, New York City, "Simmy," the climbing monkey, shown here, is a 49-cent retailer that is expected by the manufacturer to make plenty of dealer friends—and quickly.

"Simmy," five inches tall, is operated by a shake of the hand: Shake the stick and up he climbs, stop shaking and down he comes. He does all his scampering on a two-foot stick and has a bell on the tail for additional play value.

"Simmy" is attractively packaged in an eye-catching card that is suitable for display either in windows or counters.

HI-'N-LO ADJUSTABLE STILTS FROM EDUCATIONAL PRODUCTS

Stilts are back in style and Educational Products, Inc., of Newark, N. J., contends they helped to put them there.

"One successful promotion after another in 1953 has made Hi-'N-Lo Stilts a 'buy word' for jobbers, department stores and mail order houses," the manufacturer adds.

Individually boxed and having five adjustments, from a very low step to 21 inches off the ground, plus a telescope feature that enables shelf storage and parcel post shipment, these stilts have reportedly proven to have selling points of interest both to the consumer and the distributor-retailer.

For the child who desires an additional thrill, the company is offering their novel Giggle Stilts, (patent pending). The novice can walk on these stilts as on the standard Hi-'N-Lo Stilts. Then after he has mastered the art of stilt walking, a slight adjustment will enable him to safely dance, glide or bounce at will.

An All-Aluminum Pogo Stick will round out the line for 1954. Manufactured with care for details, these Jump Sticks will feature heavy duty, oil-treated springs, safety tops, heavy aluminum base shafts and extra heavy rubber crutch tips which cannot be knocked off while the jumper is in motion.

Luttinger & Weil, Room 356, Fifth Avenue Building, New York City, are national sales and marketing representatives for Educational Products, Inc. The stilts and pogo sticks will be on display in Room 356 during the Fair and throughout the year.

Floor Display, Carry-Home Pack Gets Coloring Books Into Crowded Stores

One of the biggest hurdles facing the publisher of children's books is the scarcity of counter display space found in book stores today. Strombeck Press, Inc., Moline, Ill., publisher of coloring books based on the Bible, has solved this problem by packaging sets in convenient carry-home boxes, and displaying them in a "Selmor" self-merchandising floor stand. Both boxes and display are made of corrugated board by Hinde & Dauch, Sandusky, Ohio.

The floor display not only overcomes the crowded dealer's legitimate sales resistance, but actually is said to bring him revenue from space which would often be wasted otherwise. From the publisher's standpoint, it assures effective display of his product.

The carry-home package which has handles and looks like a small suitcase, even to the printed "straps" around it, is especially attractive to the dealer because it doesn't have to be wrapped. A colorful label is affixed to the luggage-style box, identifying its contents.

The combination has proved successful not only in selling old accounts, but also in opening new ones, it is claimed.

Coloring sets that don't have to be wrapped, plus a display stand that brings revenue from waste space and breaks down sales resistance in crowded book stores.

Murray Ohio Introduces New Space Ship

LATEST addition to the Murray wheel goods line is model K-900 Super Sonic Jet. It features the streamlined design of tomorrow for today's space-minded youngsters. The fuselage and delta wing are finished in Stratosphere blue. The jet intake nose, nacelles and exhausts are chrome-plated. Other trim is rocket red. Dual jet controls are highly realistic, including simulated gauges and instruments.

Mechanically, the Murray Super Sonic Jet is also advanced. Ball-bearing construction is used throughout, which combines with a chain drive to insure maximum pedaling ease for the child.

Mr. Friedmann was a grandson of S. Schuster, founder of the company. He started with Schuster in 1910, following graduation from the University of Wisconsin. He served as president of Schuster's three Milwaukee department stores for over 20 years.

Muffie's Playtime Dolls by Nancy Ann

By GODFREY LEHMAN

Dolls are to bring children's stories to life, and they are to play with too, believe Nancy Ann and A. L. Rowland of the Nancy Ann Storybook Doll company in San Francisco.

Since 1937 this major doll manufacturing company of the West has been operating on the first of these premises and has helped the country's little and big girls to possess and love tangible versions of their favorite story book characters. But beginning in 1954 Nancy Ann will add to its production a new line of dolls to play with, because that also is important to girls aged 6 to 60.

This firm is introducing at the current Toy Fair its new series known as Muffie's Playtime Series, consisting of some 40 styles of miniature eight-inch high but, rate plastic dolls, with four hair colors and two hair-dos and a large number of costume changes. These dolls not only walk, and turn their heads from side to side, but they sit as well, and can stand by themselves. Designed by creator Nancy Ann herself, they represent the little girls who play with them in different kinds of activities: one model is prepared for a week end of skiing, a second is ready for bed in a bright kimono, a third steps out in inclement weather in a yellow slicker, a fourth is a bride, and so on—each apparently doing something little girls do—or ultimately dream of doing.

Accompanying the new playtime series will be fitted wardrobe chests and fitted wardrobe trunks containing extra sets of clothing. They are packaged, as are all Nancy Ann products, in polka dot covered boxes, which identify the Nancy Ann label. Muffie, innocent and unattributed, is made to retail at $1.98 dressed, prices vary according to the costume from about $3 to $7.

Muffie will have an older, or at least a bigger sister who, despite her size, is a few weeks younger than Muffie herself. This sister is an expansion of Nancy Ann's storybook collectors line, and the dolls stand 18 inches high. Sixteen models are expected to be ready for introduction at the Toy Fair (Rooms 614-615 in the New Yorker Hotel) and they too can walk or sit. Intended for the carriage trade, these dolls will retail between $15.95 and $35.

Mr. Rowland reports that during 1953 [illegible] dolls were turned out of the Nancy Ann factory, a record for the company, which has been increasing its output every year. About nine-tenths of these are the miniatures. Some 180 varieties made in 1953 will be reduced to about 160 during the current year to provide greater versatility and a shortened line. If the trend continues, there will be more of these 160 made this year than last year's 180. In the group there will remain only two dolls of the male sex, representing what is apparently to little girls the only function this allegedly stronger sex has in life: to marry little girls so the latter can dress up in fancy clothes. The two dolls represent in turn a groom standing abjectly [illegible] a gorgeously gowned bride and a modest boy ring bearer deferentially remaining in her shadow.

Muffie's Playtime Dolls by Nancy Ann

By GODFREY LEHMAN

DOLLS are to bring children's stories to life, and they are to play with too, believe Nancy Ann and A. L. Rowland of the Nancy Ann Storybook Doll company in San Francisco.

Since 1937 this major doll manufacturing company of the West has been operating on the first of these premises and has helped the country's little and big girls to possess and love tangible versions of their favorite story book characters. But beginning in 1954 Nancy Ann will add to its production a new line of dolls to play with, because that also is important to girls aged 6 to 60

This firm is introducing at the current Toy Fair its new series known as Muffie's Playtime Series, consisting of some 40 styles of miniature eight-inch high butyrate plastic dolls, with four hair colors and two hair-dos and a large number of costume changes. These dolls not only walk, and turn their heads from side to side, but they sit as well, and can stand by themselves. Designed by creator Nancy Ann herself, they represent the little girls who play with them in different kinds of activities: one model is prepared for a week end of skiing, a second is ready for bed in a bright kimono, a third steps out in inclement weather in a yellow slicker, a fourth is a bride, and so on each apparently doing something little girls do - or ultimately dream of doing.

Accompanying the new playtime series will be fitted wardrobe chests and fitted wardrobe trunks containing extra sets of clothing. They are packaged, as are all Nancy Ann products, in polka-dot covered boxes, which identify the Nancy Ann label Muffie, immodest and uninhibited, is made to retail at $1 98, dressed, prices vary according to the costume from about $3 to $7.

Muffie will have an older, or at least a bigger sister who, despite her size, is a few weeks younger than Muffie herself This sister is an expansion of Nancy Ann's storybook collectors line, and the dolls stand 18 inches high. Sixteen models are expected to be ready for introduction at the Toy Fair (Rooms 614-615 in the New Yorker Hotel) and they too can walk or sit. Intended for the carriage trade, these dolls will retail between $15.95 and $35

Mr. Rowland reports that during 1953 more than two million dolls were turned out of the Nancy Ann factory, a record for the company, which has been increasing its output every year. About nine-tenths of these are the miniatures. Some 180 varieties made in 1953 will be reduced to about 160 during the current year to provide greater versatility and a shortened line If the trend continues, there will be more of these 160 made this year than last year's 180. Both machines are made of sturdy steel: the $2.98 model is 8" long x 8" high x 4" wide, the larger model is 10" long x 7¾" high x 4½" wide. Toy buyers from all over the country will also have a chance to see many other new items being introduced at the Toy Fair next month. METH TOY INTRODUCES SUPER-ACTION "STURDEE" STEEDS

"More from Meth in '54" is the cry of Meth Toy Company, Inc., as they introduce two new modern hobby horses. Model 10/9, and donkey, model 20/9, are both called Super-Action "Sturdee" Steeds and both reportedly offer a great variety of consumer and dealer advantages.

They are made of soft, cuddly plush with true-to-life color, markings and expressions, and are equipped with bridle and safety belt. Seat heights are adjustable from 16 to 22 inches so that a child

The tubular telescope feature base of the toy makes the shipping package one-fifth of the size of the assembly item and permits re-shipping by parcel post. When assembled, the measurements up to 35" high by 18 wide by 27 long, prepacked in corrugated containers. The Meth Toy Fair exhibit is in Room 1025, Hotel McAlpin. NEW GLOBE MERCHANDISER ANNOUNCED BY REPLOGLE

Replogle Globes, Inc., of Chicago, announces that a new merchandiser is available to stores handling their line of Play Globes.

The unit is designed for counter or window display and will hold four different Play Globe models to give the customer maximum selection. Only 22" wide and 10" deep, the new merchandiser takes up less space on a counter than would ordi narily be required to display four globes.

Replogle's Play Globe display is sturdily constructed and has a heavy laminated surface, easy to keep clean. It is lithographed in bright red, blue and yellow, and its general appearance points up the high play value of the various Replogle globe games. One of the most desirable features in its design is its openness; the globes can be seen from all sides.

For further information about their new display, Replogle suggests dealers contact the firm's national sales representatives, Levy & Fryer, 200 Fifth Avenue, Room 1453, in New York City.

MECKLENBURG BUBBLES PLAY PART IN CHARLOTTE, N. C., EVENT

Charlotte, N. C., was literally bubbling over July 10 when the huge three-million-dollar Municipal Airport was officially opened.

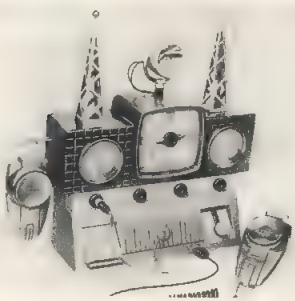
Government officials and dignitaries were greeted with giant king size bubbles which floated and swirled spectacularly in the air under a sign proclaiming that Charlotte was "Bubbling Over With Opportunities."

Being the center of many of the country's outstanding industries which includes Mecklenburg Specialties, Inc., one of the world's largest bubble soap manufacturers (King Size Bubble Soap)—the whole city was paid tribute for its progress and vision.

Mecklenburg's president Joe Scott exemplified this vision for which his home town was being lauded by installing several of his bubble machines, which produced masses of balloon-like iridescent bubbles that lent color and spectacle to the ceremonies.

The dedication proceedings were televised and spectacular shots of planes surrounded by bubbles gave a Martian and space-world effect to an eventful afternoon for the city fathers—and for citizen and Bubble King Joe Scott, who is still beaming from the comments and nationwide attention his bubbles elicited.

Electronic Radio Station



Reputed to have been one of the best-received items at the Toy Fair, Remco Industries' Electronic Radio Station has, according to the manufacturer, more than proved itself since in toy stores and departments across the country.

It includes two microphones that actually work over long distances and a professional telegraph key that works the buzzer, the telegraph click and the searchlight signals. The powerful searchlight is worked by remote control from the transmitter panel and will turn in a 360-degree radius.

The radio station itself is a handsomely designed switchboard-type transmitter made of high impact plastic. With it are a radio signal detector which registers transmitted impulses, an automatic decoder and, for keeping message records, a permanent log book.

The set comes complete with two batteries and all accessories at a retail price of $6.95.

The Tru-Vue list of featured subjects gains another all-time favorite with the addition of "Pinocchio Comes to Life," taken from Walt Disney's warm-hearted version of the puppet that became a real boy. The new True-Vue item, by TRU-VUE CO., Beaverton, Ore., ties in with the re-release of Disney's full length animated cartoon movie, "Pinocchio."

Film cards are in color with extra large 3-D pictures, which allow film titles and story continuity to be printed on the film itself, eliminating the necessity of removing the viewer from the eyes between views.

The viewer itself, completely redesigned, has big convex windows which let in 33 per cent more light, and has optically correct, distortion-free lenses.

The viewer retails for $1.49. Film cards are 29c each, or three for 85c.

New Toys on Parade

Irish Mail

Back again to thrill today's youngsters is the Irish Mail, one of the most popular juvenile wheel toys of the past generation. Manufactured by the BUCKLEY MANUFACTURING CO., Chicago, Ill., the present day version is said to contain many new design improvements.

A single front wheel replaces the old-style double wheel. This eliminates the hazard of foot pinch. The chain drive transmission is an exclusive feature of the Buckley Irish Mail, and although it is as fast as a bicycle, its low gravity center makes for safe operation

The young operator sits on an adjustable, weather-proof Duran upholstered seat. Two 10" ball bearing steel wheels at the rear have semi-pneumatic tires and are driven by an authentic automotive-type transmission. The front wheel, 8" in diameter, is equipped, also, with a semi-pneumatic rubber tire

Bright red enamel covers the steel gear housing and wheels. The frame and handle are constructed of sturdy, lusterized steel tubing. Handle grips are rubber.

The Buckley Irish Mail is 32" long, 13½" wide and 11" high. In individual cartons and completely assembled, the retail selling price is $19.95. Considered well calculated to provide fun and healthful exercise to boys and girls from 3 to 10, the toy is now ready for distribution

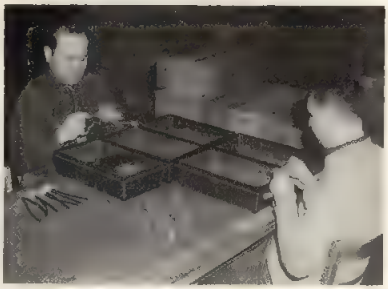
Guild for Jewish Blind Has Expanded Contract Department



The New York Guild for the Jewish Blind, a non-sectarian agency for the blind and visually handicapped at 1880 Broadway, New York City, has announced the expansion of their contract department to better serve the needs of industry. An examination of the new services, it is reported, indicate that these are a unique but none-the-less efficient way to satisfy requirements for contract work, and at the same time, do a great service to the community.

The Guild maintains a workshop program to train and employ blind people. And one of their most successful and rapidly expanding shops is a contract department. The services include assembly, stapling, packaging, lacing, hanking, kick press work and sorting. At Guild headquarters are available 10,000 square feet of working area plus 10,000 square feet of storage space. A loading platform and freight elevator help speed the operation. Sewing and woodworking departments on the premises are other useful features.

The Guild has highly skilled supervisors that will insure individual attention to every job, and a large staff can reportedly handle, with ease, seasonal volume.

Manufacturers interested in this way of meeting contract work needs and helping the blind are invited to call or write Contract Department, 1880 Broadway, Circle 6-3341. Large or small orders and new-item production can be handled, the Guild states.

Pensick Guest of Honor At UJA Dinner June 9

Top leaders of the toy and doll industry met recently at the Hotel McAlpin, New York City, and pledged "an all-out effort to mobilize everyone in the trade in support of the 1954 campaign of the United Jewish Appeal of Greater New York." This organizational meeting of U. A's Toy and Doll Division was presided over by David Rosenstein, president of the Ideal Toy Corporation and divisional honorary chairman

Co-chairmen for the current campaign are Louis Rubin, of Artistic Doll Company, and David Krotman, of Portugal & Krotman

The toy and doll men unanimously selected Sam Pensick, of Pensick & Gordon, of Los Angeles, to be guest of honor at the division's annual dinner for UJA to be held on Wednesday, June 9, at the Waldorf Astoria, New York City

In announcing this testimonial dinner to Mr Pensick, Mr Rosenstein stated: "With Sam as our honored guest, we should have the most successful affair in our division's history. Not only has he commanded our respect as a businessman of initiative and integrity as owner of the second largest toy distribution company in the world, not only has he inspired us by his work in philanthropy—a pillar of strength in UJA activities in Los Angeles and a member of the board of directors of the Welfare Fund in that city: but also he has won our admiration for perhaps a much more important reason: he is that unique individual in these times—a modest, understanding, extremely warm-hearted human being

"The fact that he is flying in from the West Coast to attend our dinner should inspire us," Mr. Rosenstein concluded, "to work out most successfully our 'formula for giving' in 1954 Under this formula, increased contributions are being asked and obtained—to meet in full the 1954 national UJA goal of nearly $120,000,000 for current needs; plus an additional contribution of 20 per cent to help meet New York's share in repaying a nationwide $75,000,000 five-year loan made by national UJA in order to accelerate the absorption of immigrants in Israel, speed the country's agricultural development and at the same time provide the hard currency required by Israel to consolidate its critical short term indebtedness"

Serving as honorary chairmen of this division are Jacob Brock, American Character Doll Corporation; J. Lionel Cowen, Lionel Corporation, Charles S. Raizen, Transogram Company, and Mr. Rosenstein

Major aim of the United Jewish Appeal of Greater New York's 1954 campaign is to raise the metropolitan area's share of the national United Jewish Appeal goal of $119,921 150, as well as the local proportion of the national budgets of the American Jewish Congress ($1,185,000) and the National Jewish Welfare Board ($2,232,155)

The agencies to benefit from the drive are the United Israel Appeal, Joint Distribution Committee (including ORT), United Service for New Americans, New York Association for New Americans, National Jewish Welfare Board and American Jewish Congress. The United Jewish Appeal of Greater New York is their sole fund-raising agency in New York City and in Westchester, Nassau and Suffolk.

Product Miniature Doubles Capacity

To provide additional assembly line and office space, the Product Miniature Company recently doubled the size of their Milwaukee, Wisconsin, plant.

The new facilities include a drafting room, office quarters, and an assembly line for the Tru-Miniature electric crawler tractor. This arrangement will take pressure off other assembly lines and make room for new products.

Nearly a dozen new items have been added to the 1954 line of mechanized Tru Miniatures. Outstanding additions include the Trailways Thru-Liner Bus, Oscar Mayer Wienermobile and the yellow cab.

The new bus is a miniature copy of the latest idea in cross-country transportation —double-decking. It's 18 inches long and comes in four-color finish: silver, red, cream and white. It is said to offer exceptional play value: The destination sign can be turned to 16 different cities; wheels are demountable and interchangeable; four pieces of miniature luggage and a spare wheel are in the luggage compartment. The bus has a high-impact plastic body with a Tak-a-part motor in the rear and a Spin-Torque motor to propel it. It has nine heavy-duty white wheels, chrome hub caps, and black vinyl tires; and the front wheels turn either left or right. The steel chassis is interlocking. The box can be used as a bus depot.

The wienermobile is a new idea in toys. It's a scale model of the famous Oscar Mayer car. It also is propelled by a Spin Torque motor, and as it moves along "Oscar the Chef" moves up and down in the top of the wiener.

The yellow cab is a 1954 model Plymouth with a Spin Torque motor, yellow cab decals, a trunk billboard and a taxi sign on top. It has tinted windows, a steel chassis, black vinyl tires, a silver-lacquered grille, bumpers and lights. It is 1/25th scale of the real taxi.

The deluxe model No. 353 electric crawler tractor with transformer now includes two electric headlights, an 18-inch log chain, three logs, a new remote control panel, a wagon with rear hitch, a metal drawbar hitch and a bulldozer blade assembly that snaps on or off.

In addition, the remote-controlled electric crawler tractor is now offered with the control panel, but without a transformer for customers who wish to use the transformer they already have on hand as part of their electric train set-up.

This standard model No. 355, without transformer, has headlights, a log chain and logs, the new remote control panel, a metal drawbar hitch and snap-on bulldozer blade assembly.

In addition to their Farmall tractor kit, Product Miniature now offers both the Plymouth sedan and the suburban in unassembled kits. The car kits include all the parts necessary to assemble the complete item plus paints and brush.

Bill and Paul Ford, owners of the Product Miniature Company, point out that the Tru-Miniature lines for 1954 have been almost completely motorized for additional play value and increased sales appeal.

Sales manager Vern Hanson says he feels sure that realism plus down-on-the-floor toy action is the kind of wholesome, educational entertainment mothers want for their children and that all these new features will help make the Tru-Miniature line "more popular than ever."

New and Improved Doll Stand Introduced by Mary Hoyer

The Mary Hoyer Doll Manufacturing Company of Reading, Pa., manufacturers of the nationally-advertised Mary Hoyer Dolls and doll accessories, has announced an entirely new and improved doll stand. Recently patented, it is now in production.

Still another innovation found in the Mary Hoyer Doll Stand is a hoop that may easily be attached to the stand when the doll is displayed with a full skirt. This hoop helps to "flare" the skirt.

Stands come in two sizes for displaying a 14-inch doll—a base 4" x 3½" uprights holding a 6" diameter hoop 5" high, for displaying an 18-inch doll base 4" x 4⅛" uprights 7", and 6" diameter hoop.

Three Giant-Sized Pools Added to Million-Air Line

Last season's inflatable plastic wading pool market, according to Robert Carson, general sales manager, U. S. Fiber & Plastics Corporation, 200 Lexington Avenue, New York City, proved "how easy it is to trade customers up to larger sizes."

To help dealers cash in on this trend Million-Air, he reports, has added three new giant-size three-ring pools wading pools to its line.

"This trend to larger sizes is due to the fact that parents now purchase pools in terms of family size—the larger the family, the larger the pool," Mr. Carson stated.

"And to make inflation of large pools easy, Million-Air includes an exclusive home inflating device with every large three-ring pool. This simple attachment permits inflating pools by using any standard vacuum cleaner."

Million-Air's new Super-Giant 108" three-ring round pool is 18" deep. It is made of extra sturdy 20-gauge Krene plastic. Mr. Carson contended that Million-Air's Super-Giant 108" pool has a 40 per cent lower retail price than any other 20-gauge three ring pool of the same size. It is equipped with rust proof metal valves and retails for $49.50 (#1109).

Next in size is the Million-Air Giant 60" three-ring round pool which is 12" deep. It is also made of extra sturdy 20-gauge Krene plastic. This pool (#1191) retails for $29.95, and has a decorated bottom.

A new huge 72" three-ring round pool completes the Million-Air line in the larger size pools. It is, Mr. Carson contends, 33 per cent stronger, and priced lower than any comparable size pool available. It is 12" deep, has a three-color bottom, rust proof metal valves. It (#1173) retails at $17.95.

All three Million-Air giant size three-ring pools are individually packed in two-color self selling boxes.

The Million-Air inflatable play plastics line also includes smaller round, square and oval wading pools, a complete line of Fun Splasher water toys, surf mats, inflatable boats; beach mats and vear [illegible]

Management at Harett-Gilmar to Show "More for '54" at Fair

Marty Lewis, Bob Smith, Howdy and Clarabell

THE hard-hitting trio of Sy Blum, Gil Felsenthal and Marty Lewis, heads of Harett-Gilmar, Inc., are introducing their new "Wiry Dan" games with "more for '54" at the Toy Fair.

Howdy Doody's Electric Doodler, an assortment of brilliantly colorful activity games, puzzles, quizzes and mazes, will headline the Harett Gilmar 98-cent line of electric games. Second feature attraction is the series of "games with a gimmick," based on such famous children's classics as "Tom Sawyer," "Treasure Island" and "Pinocchio." Another solo spotlights are "Weav-O Rama," a completely new do-it-yourself item for children of all ages and "Traffic Jam," a distinctive board game based on auto driving operations.

Six short years ago the three boys began operations in Gil Felsenthal's basement. Their production department was the top of a ping pong table and their capital investment totaled $27. Under these circumstances they produced, at night, the novelty nite-lites they sold during the day. Their fortunes are then reported to have taken a tremendous turn for the better when a major department store ran a full-page four-color advertisement of the Harett-Gilmar items.

"The result," Marty Lewis recalls, "was a sell-out, and what was now a business hobby became a full-fledged business." The president, as sub-assembly operator, the vice-president, as final assembly operator; and the secretary-treasurer, as shipping clerk, found themselves no longer able to handle the flood of orders.

"So with our hearts in our mouths," Marty comments, "we signed a lease for a small loft."

Then, in 1951, Harett-Gilmar introduced a complete line of illuminated Christmas specialties and thereby jumped their volume to a point well beyond the capacity of their small loft. Consequently, in June, 1952, they moved to the 10,000-square-foot plant they now occupy.

Then came the "big switch."

In October of that year the company came out with "Know America," their first "Wiry Dan" Electric Game. The test run convinced them they had struck "pay dirt," and by Toy Fair time in '53 a full line of 98-cent electric games had been developed. "Marty and I had writer's cramp after the show, and that's bragging, not complaining," observes Gil Felsenthal.

"We didn't completely realize just how much our business had changed and grown," Gil continues, "until our friends remarked on it at the end of the season. We'd been too busy to notice that we'd suddenly become one of the leading manufacturers of electric games in the country."

Harett-Gilmar's products reflect, in their workmanship, the technical know-how and expertness that the three men were able to bring to their operation by dint of their considerable background in engineering.

Quoting Sy Blum: "In purchasing and production we diligently employ suitable mass production methods to give the best value possible for a given retail price."

"In all of our design efforts," adds Gil, "we are constantly guided by our basic policy of adding to the toy industry by putting something out of the ordinary into each of our products."

It is interesting to note, incidentally, that Harett-Gilmar's games are pre-tested by local youngsters who are invited to play with the new games and rate them.

Representatives covering all sections of the country, and headquartered in key points with their territories have been appointed at various times by Harett-Gilmar. These representatives are:

JESSAR MFG. CORPORATION INTRODUCES NEW AUTO SEAT

Jessar Manufacturing Corporation has announced the introduction of the Sadd-L-Seat, described as an entirely "different" auto seat. As the name indicates, even

The Sadd-L-Seat features a soft plastic horse's head of pliable vinyl gayly decorated with reins and jingle bells, and the entire attachment may be easily detached, leaving a regular Sit-N-Stand auto seat ready for use.

Featuring the same quality construction and upholstering as the Sit-N-Stand seat, the Sadd-L-Seat has already reportedly proven its popularity in the pre-show displays. Suggested retail is $4.96. Further information may be obtained by writing directly to the factory at 19th and Westmoreland Streets, Philadelphia 40.

NOSCO PLASTICS in New Home

The president of Nosco Plastics, Inc., Erie, Pennsylvania, Harry H. Kugel, has announced that his company's transition to its recently acquired plant at 1701 Gaskell Avenue in Erie has been completed.

A former Read Standard Corporation factory, the new home of Nosco Plastics, Inc., covers over 28 acres and has approximately 227,000 square feet in modern, one-story brick and steel buildings. Although Mr. Kugel referred to the move as a consolidation of Nosco's operations for greater efficiency, he also added that the new plant will enable Nosco to expand facilities for producing its popular toy and proprietary lines, as well as the custom molding division.

Beginning in 1936 with a 2-ounce press, Nosco has enjoyed rapid growth, and today it has presses in all sizes from 2-ounce to 60-ounce capacity. Until the recent move into its new plant, which was so smooth that practically no production time was lost, it was necessary for Nosco to house its operations in three different locations.

Full Scale Production

The firm's move at this time will permit it to maintain full scale production of its tremendous new line of toys for 1954, which will be displayed in Room 218, 5th Avenue Building, and Room 723, Hotel New Yorker, during the Toy Fair Show.

Lawrence Schmidt to Represent Dale Products

Dale Products, Inc., Columbus, Nebraska, manufacturers of the new "Little Miss Miniature" toy electric iron, announces the appointment of Lawrence R. Schmidt & Company of New York as its eastern representative.

The New York firm, which maintains showrooms at 200 Fifth Avenue in New York City, will sell the "Little Miss Miniature" line in New York and the New England states.

The "Little Miss Miniature" iron has a strong appeal for children because it not only looks like mother's iron, but works like it, too. Though it gets hot enough to do light ironing, it never gets hot enough to burn.

During the Toy Fair, Dale Products, Inc., will have the new iron on display in Room 1451, Hotel New Yorker.

Monday New Market Day At Western Mart

"Effective March 15, 1954, every Monday, instead of every Friday, will be Market Day," stated Frank K. Runyan, general manager of the Western Merchandise Mart in San Francisco.

The decision to change from the traditional Friday Market Day was the result of a recent survey, which showed western retail dealers and buyers favoring Monday for Market Day by a margin of three to one.

In agreeing to break the precedent of almost 39 years of Friday markets, the management of the Mart stressed its willingness to meet changing conditions if better service for more people could thereby be provided.

The question of a change in semi-annual market dates from February and July to May and November was deferred for further study.

New Transogram Factory

Mifflinburg Body Works, Wilkes Barre, Pa., put up for auction, went to the Transogram Company of New York, it was announced by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

A high bid of $265,000 was submitted by the successful bidder, Charles S. Raizen, president of Transogram Company. He said the plant will be occupied by Anchor Toy Company, a subsidiary of Transogram. Within 60 days, the manufacture of wooden toys will begin in the plant.

New Toys on Parade

New Flying Model

CLEVELAND MODEL PRODUCTS CO., Cleveland 2, Ohio, has announced the "Cloud King" soaring glider, a new sheetwood flying model.

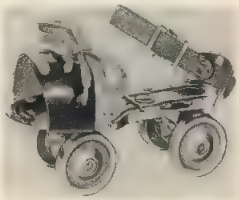
Designed for children six years old and over, the Cloud King is a three-foot model, with a profile fuselage printed on both sides. It has rudder, plastic canopy, and both weights glued in place for balance. The wings are said to be efficiently curved aerodynamically to bring out the best flying qualities of the design.

According to the company, the model will soar for hours in free flight or if flown as a kite on a thread in a moderate breeze. A rubberband is supplied with loop on one end for catapult launching. This number, RF-51, is easily put together, and retails at $1.25.

"Imp" Roller Skate

A new small roller skate called The Imp has been added to CHICAGO ROLLER SKATE CO.'s line. It is designed for the small beginner.

The Imp will fit the tiniest toddler, but also can be extended to take care of a youngster until he is able to use a standard skate.



Leather toe-straps, with bright red laces, lace around and protect the shoe. The heel strap is so easy-to-manage that even the smallest youngster can secure it. Plain bearing wheels roll rapidly, but not so fast as to be dangerous to the small skater.

New Tru-Vue Film

The Tru-Vue list of featured subjects gains another all-time favorite with the addition of "Pinocchio Comes to Life," taken from Walt Disney's warm-hearted version of the puppet that became a real boy. The new True-Vue item, by TRU-VUE CO., Beaverton, Ore., ties in with the release of Disney's full length animated cartoon movie, "Pinocchio."

Film cards are in color with extra large 3-D pictures, which allow film titles and story continuity to be printed on the film itself, eliminating the necessity of removing the viewer from the eyes between views.

The viewer itself, completely redesigned, has big convex windows which let in 33 per cent more light, and has optically correct, distortion-free lenses.

The viewer retails for $1.49. Film cards are 29c each, or three for 85c.

"Ranch House"

A toy to capture the imagination of any child is Ranch House, manufactured by SANDOR PRODUCTS, INC., 21333 Woodward Ave., Ferndale, Mich. Big enough to walk in or play in, the house is 48" high, 44½" long and 30" deep.

The play house door and windows open and close, and it has a complete roof and four walls. It is pictured here with one wall cut away to show the interior, but there are actually no open sides.

The house comes complete with floor pad and name plate above the door; each "rancher" can name his or her own cabin. The outside is realistically printed to simulate rustic wood construction. The inside is colorfully printed with simulated furniture, logs, bear skin, fireplace, bedstead and rifles.

Ranch House is made of 200-lb. test, extra-heavy corrugated board with reinforced stress points and is said to be strong enough to climb on.

A child can assemble it, there are four pieces and a floor pad fastened together by interlocking tabs. Ranch House retails for $7.95.

WES-KO'S SUCCESS STORY

ONE of the most remarkable success stories in the plastic toy industry can be told about Wes-ko Products, Los Angeles, and its two co-partner owners, Jules Tanzman and David Glass.

Slightly more than three years ago, Tanzman and Glass began producing a plastic piggy bank that bore the cute name of Snooty. Soon to follow this immediate hit was an entire family of plastic piggy banks. Not content with a mere piggy bank, a novel tipping hat was included in the improved models. A simple device made a hat rise from the piggy's head as a coin was inserted. Today, these banks are standard in the trade and used by many firms as novel promotional pieces. There are five different sizes.

Plastic Tea Sets

Next came a series of plastic tea sets, whose unique feature was color. Wes-ko had perfected warm fiesta colors that resembled popular California pottery. Included in these sets were settings of highly polished sterling-silver-tone silverware. Their engraved appearance gave them realism rarely obtained in plastics. These sets, known as Cindy Tea Sets, range from 16 to 46 pieces.

Entering the toy gun field next, Wes-ko produced a Cosmic Jet water pistol after perfecting a simplified pump mechanism following eighteen months research. Because it was pocket-size, leak-proof and had great capacity, the Cosmic Jet attained great success.

Once in the toy gun field, Wesko seemed to strike another bonanza . . . this time in the production of strikingly realistic replicas of popular weapons.

First to sweep the country, less than a year ago, was their Tommy Gun. This copy of the famed Thompson automatic submachine gun fired twenty-five light weight plastic balls as fast as the trigger was pulled. The use of die-cast metal moving parts, together with high impact Styron "475", made the gun practically indestructible.

Luger Automatic

Next was their Luger Automatic. Two-thirds the size of the original German pistol from which it was copied, this gun, too, had an amazing likeness to the real thing. It was capable of firing ten plastic pellets with as great rapidity as the trigger could be pulled and released.

Now ready for distribution, and promising to take their places among best sellers as have their forerunners, are Wes-ko's new Carbine rifle and Forty-Five Automatic pistol. They fire harmless plastic pellets, too.

Even disaster could not hold back the progressive spirit of Tanzman & Glass. A few months ago, fire destroyed a great section of the Wes-ko plant, but within a few days, the production line was busy again, in a makeshift set-up in a vacant building across the street.

Other items included in the extensive Wes-ko line are: Floating Ducks, Cutie Fish, Thread Box, Poker Chips and Ray-O-Matic Target Pistol.

Better Quality Toys

The design and perfection of the mechanically - operated toys is due to the genius of Serge Abagoff, who has worked closely with Tanzman and Glass in presenting better quality toys at lowest possible prices. Abagoff, internationally known, heads the Seda Inventions Development Corporation of Los Angeles.

The Wes-ko plant is located at 3536 Union Pacific Avenue, Los Angeles. The line will be displayed at the Toy Fair in Room 814, Hotel New Yorker.

Entering the toy gun field next, Wes-ko produced a Cosmic Jet water pistol incorporating a simplified pump mechanism, the result of 18 months research. Because it was pocket-size, leak-proof and had great capacity, the Cosmic Jet attained great success, the manufacturer states

Once in the toy gun field, Wes-ko is reported to have struck another "bonanza this time in the production of realistic replicas of well-known weapons

First, introduced less than a year ago, was their Tommy Gun. This copy of the famed Thompson Automatic Sub-Machine Gun fired 25 lightweight plastic balls as fast as the trigger was pulled. The use of die-cast metal moving parts together with high impact Styron "475" reportedly made the gun practically indestructible

Next was their Luger Automatic. Two-thirds the size of the original German pistol from which it was closely copied, this gun was capable of firing 10 plastic pellets with as great a rapidity as the trigger could be pulled and released

Now ready for distribution are Wes-ko's new Carbine rifle and Forty-Five Automatic pistol. They fire harmless plastic pellets too

Even disaster could not hold back the progressive spirit of Messrs. Tanzman and Glass A few months ago, fire destroyed a great section of the Wes-ko plant, but within a few days the production line was busy again, in a make-shift set-up in a vacant building across the street

Other items included in the extensive Wes-ko line are: Floating Ducks, Cutie Fish, Thread Box, Poker Chips and Ray-O-Matic Target Pistol.

The design and perfection of the mechanically operated toys is the province of Serge Abagoff, who has worked closely with Messrs. Tanzman and Glass in presenting quality toys at popular prices. Mr Abagoff, internationally known, heads the Seda Inventions Development Corporation of Los Angeles

The entire Wes-ko line will be displayed at the Toy Fair in Room 814 of the Hotel New Yorker

ATLAS DISTRIBUTORS, INC., TAKES OVER BUILDING IN NEW HAVEN

Now renting an entire building is Atlas Distributors, Inc., 812 State Street, New Haven 11, Conn., a toy, gift and novelties wholesaler which opened for business in a small store location on May 1, last year

According to J. Slott, president, the new showroom and warehouse contain some 9,000 square feet, 1,400 of which is devoted exclusively to display space. "With pegboard walls and asphalt flooring, we feel our showroom is one of the most attractive in the state," Mr Slott comments. "A $3,600 investment, the expansion we feel, will more than pay for itself—and quickly." Among our lines are those of Hassenfeld Bros., Ideal Toy, Saalfield and Barr Rubber We are hopeful that, soon, many other such top-flight toy manufacturers allow us to act as distributors for them."

LISBETH WHITING'S SCHOOL COACH, BRACELET BANGLES

An excellent trade response to Lisbeth Whiting's two new items, the Official School Coach and Bracelet Bangles, was reported by Randy Patterson, general sales manager of Lisbeth Whiting Company, Inc., of 175 Fifth Ave, New York

'Both items are outstanding hits," said Mr Patterson, "because they are beautifully packaged in keeping with the Lisbeth Whiting line and are attractively priced an unbeatable combination for good sales in all season

"The Official School Coach is, to our knowledge, the only combination in the toy industry that spells, adds and subtracts, while retailing at the low price of $1. The item is a large size, boxed unit, 15 x 10½", in full vibrant color and composed of nine wheels which are ingeniously arranged to provide endless hours of enjoyment, entertainment and education. Many important and exclusive features are present in this set, a triple combination that correctly teaches spelling, adding and subtracting," Mr Patterson concluded

Lisbeth Whiting's Bracelet Bangles, which retails for $1.79, is kit which enables a child to make four cute and charming bracelets. After extensive research and planning, Lisbeth Whiting has assembled four series of jewelry items which are figured to captivate every young lady. First, a series of authentic grocery miniatures such as tiny boxes of Aunt Jemima Pancake Flour, Ritz Crackers, small bottles of Coca-Cola, Heinz Ketchup, jars of Karo Syrup, cans of Campbell's soups, etc.; second, a collection of miniature popular records, fully labelled on both sides like the real ones; third, an assemblage of sculptured comic characters, and, fourth, a series of attractive 24-karat gold plate designs

A very important element of Lisbeth Whiting's Bracelet Bangles is that each one of the jewelry items is individually heat-sealed in cellophane, which prevents the charms from being displaced. An extra bonus is incorporated in the Bracelet Bangles kit in the form of an interesting game called "Niagara," cards for which are included in the set

OVER 150 "LOCK-ROOT" MACHINES SOLD TO TRADE

Ted Field, of Baby Barry Toy Company, reports that in the space of little more than six months the Doll Machine Manufacturing Corporation—organized by him—has sold over 150 machines for the "Lock-Rooting" of doll hair

"This machine," states Mr. Field, "was the result of considerable research on the part of myself and two aeronautical engineers It is truly a marvel of simplicity and construction, necessitating very little attention once it's been broken in It sews hair into the head of a doll, cuts the hair to the desired length and opens and closes the distance between stitches all in a single operation. No chemicals are used either inside or outside the head to mar the natural brilliance of the yarn or to cause it to be brittle upon combing.

"The Doll Machine Manufacturing Corporation," Mr. Field continues, "helps the purchaser by actually placing him in business. We train the girls to sew the heads, train a man to maintain and oil the machines, teach the purchaser how to rewind the yarn, comb the hair after it's stitched, teach the girls how to make proper coiffures—in other words, do everything else we can think of to guarantee the success of the operation"

This method of installing doll hair is called the "Lock-Rooted" process, and all purchasers of the machines who follow the procedures recommended by the manufacturer are permitted to use insigne certifying that the doll heads were made in accordance with the Lock-Rooted system

The large bucket type seat is adjustable and a trailer hitch is provided

Shillman's Doll Clothes

The accompanying photo depicts one of the many attractive featured displays of the comprehensive line of doll clothes and gift box sets manufactured by M. & S Shillman, 122 Harrison Place, Brooklyn 5, N. Y., that have been appearing in leading stores throughout the country

Says Mr. Shillman, "When we went into business almost 30 years ago as specialists in the manufacture of doll clothes we were practically alone in the field However, our pioneering work has borne fruit and today more and more toy buyers are finding that it pays to promote doll clothes and gift box sets, not only during the concentrated Christmas selling period, but right through the year. When some of the biggest stores in the country have so conclusively found that it pays to devote real space to the display of doll clothes it certainly shows that the volume sale potential for this type of merchandise is present—if it will only be cultivated."

For the coming year the Shillman firm has designed and prepared a bigger than ever line of doll clothes and gift box sets which will be on display during the Fair in Room 1446, Hotel New Yorker

"Zippy the Chimp" AND "Windy the Dog"

Wight Rushton and Mrs. M. P. Rushton take orders on their Howdy Doody items—Windy, the Dog, and Zippy, the Chimp —while the real Zippy busily adds sales figures.

THIS year a master designer and executor of design, Mrs. Rushton, of the Rushton Company, Atlanta, Georgia, has tied-in two of her new stuffed toy offerings with characters on the nation-wide television show. "Howdy Doody," said to be America's number one television show for children. The Howdy Doody show claims an audience of 15 million people each day for its five-day a week, 52-week show. There are also Howdy Doody comic book, record and film mediums. Kagran Corporation, New York City, is the licensor of Howdy Doody products. This is a first national tie-in for the Rushton Company.

Exact Counterpart

First of these is "Zippy the Chimp." So lifelike is he, that the real "Zippy" might seem a counterpart. In fact, when "Zippy" viewed his Rushton likeness during Toy Fair, he thought it was his twin! This likeness comes in two sizes—21 inch and 15 inch to retail at $10 and $7, respectively. He's dressed in red corduroy pants with green button adornment, wears a jersey "T" shirt and carries a flag pennant inscribed, "Zippy—Howdy Doody." He's made of shaggy plush with vinyl ears, face, hands and shoes and boasts the master Rushton touch. Along with Chubby Tubby, introduced in 1952, he's one of the Toy Guidance "104 Prestige Toys."

Which is Real?

Other Howdy Doody character is "Windy, the Dog," a sheep dog executed with an extra-long pile shaggy rayon plush with gray markings which blend in. He wears a Howdy Doody cap, has vinyl snout and felt stopper paws. Long strands of rayon-like material which fall over the face are the final realistic touch of the artist here. He comes in three sizes—12 inch to retail at $5, 15 inch to retail at $8, and 18 inch to retail at $12. Also, he comes in two positions—sitting and lying.

Jingle Dingle Doll

Rushton has also tied-in with Jason Comic Art's Jingle Dingle in its Jingle Dingle doll replica, colorful, detailed likeness in plastic material to retail at $2. A merchandising personality, Jingle Dingle is called "The sprite of good cheer" and appears on television as Dumont's singing weatherman; in comic strips as Santa's number one helper; in a special Christmas feature; and in a hit Christmas song recorded by Julius La Rosa and other top artists.

Nellybelle Horse

Another new design by the creator of Chubby Tubby, a '52 hit; Chico, a '53 success, and now, in 1954, Zippy the Chimp and Windy, the Dog, is the Nellybelle horse. A floppy animal that comes in a new type of short pile, which is brown color with white markings, she has vinyl hoofs, face and ears with white yarn mane. Bells are attached to the felt harness. Bridle is also of felt. The smaller size, with blue and white felt harness is to retail at $7. The 23 inch size, with yellow and blue harness, will retail for $12.

• B. F. Goodrich "Koroseal" giant-size rigid wading pool was the subject of a Titche-Goettinger advertisement run in the Daily Times Herald of Dallas, Texas, on April 5.

This same issue also carried a two-column ad of The Play Yard which featured Gym-Dandy outdoor gyms as "a complete playground." Special service offer to deliver and set up the gym free of charge was made. The Play Yard also offers free sand with its sandboxes.

• Robinson's, Beverly Hills, Calif., department store, advertised a backyard gym set at $34.44, at about the same time, with payments of $1 down and $1 a week. Regular price was stated as $52.95.

WES-KO'S SUCCESS STORY

ONE of the most remarkable success stories in the plastic toy industry can be told about Wes-ko Products, Los Angeles, and its two co-partner owners, Jules Tanzman and David Glass.

Slightly more than three years ago, Tanzman and Glass began producing a plastic piggy bank that bore the cute name of Snooty. Soon to follow this immediate hit was an entire family of plastic piggy banks. Not content with a mere piggy bank, a novel tipping hat was included in the improved models. A simple device made a hat rise from the piggy's head as a coin was inserted. Today, these banks are standard in the trade and used by many firms as novel promotional pieces. There are five different sizes.

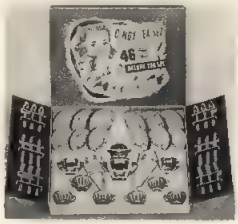
Plastic Tea Sets

Next came a series of plastic tea sets, whose unique feature was color. Wes-ko had perfected warm fiesta colors that resembled popular California pottery. Included in these sets were settings of highly polished sterling-silver-tone silverware. Their engraved appearance gave them realism rarely obtained in plastics. These sets, known as Cindy Tea Sets, range from 16 to 46 pieces.

Entering the toy gun field next, Wes-ko produced a Cosmic Jet water pistol after perfecting a simplified pump mechanism following eighteen months research. Because it was pocket-size, leak-proof and had great capacity, the Cosmic Jet attained great success.

Once in the toy gun field, Wes-ko seemed to strike another bonanza . . . this time in the production of strikingly realistic replicas of popular weapons.



First to sweep the country, less than a year ago, was their Tommy Gun. This copy of the famed Thompson automatic submachine gun fired twenty-five light weight plastic balls as fast as the trigger was pulled. The use of die-cast metal moving parts, together with high impact Styron "475", made the gun practically indestructible.

Luger Automatic

Next was their Luger Automatic. Two-thirds the size of the original German pistol from which it was copied, this gun, too, had an amazing likeness to the real thing. It was capable of firing ten plastic pellets with as great rapidity as the trigger could be pulled and released.

Now ready for distribution, and promising to take their places among best sellers as have their forerunners, are Wes-ko's new Carbine rifle and Forty-Five Automatic pistol. They fire harmless plastic pellets, too.

Even disaster could not hold back the progressive spirit of Tanzman & Glass. A few months ago, fire destroyed a great section of the Wes-ko plant, but within a few days, the production line was busy again, in a makeshift set-up in a vacant building across the street.

Other items included in the extensive Wes-ko line are: Floating Ducks, Cutie Fish, Thread Box, Poker Chips and Ray-O-Matic Target Pistol.

Better Quality Toys

The design and perfection of the mechanically - operated toys is due to the genius of Serge Abagoff, who has worked closely with Tanzman and Glass in presenting better quality toys at lowest possible prices. Abagoff, internationally known, heads the Seda Inventions Development Corporation of Los Angeles.

The Wes-ko plant is located at 3536 Union Pacific Avenue, Los Angeles. The line will be displayed at the Toy Fair in Room 814, Hotel New Yorker.

RETAILERS LAUD NAT'L GAMES SELF-SERVICE FLOOR UNITS

That retailers everywhere are beginning to emulate the supermarket in its use of self-service, mass-display floor merchandising units, is a fact reportedly established by trade reaction to a compact floor unit recently introduced by National Games, Inc., of West Springfield, Mass. The company is a prominent designer and producer of boxed games, activity sets and educational pastimes for adults and children.

The unit illustrated here is representative of the type said to be preferred by progressive retailers. It displays 12 different games, all retailing at either 39c or 49c and all price-marked. This particular group consists of cellophane-protected boxes, gayly-colored and decorated, each containing two different games. Both the box-tops and bottoms are brightly printed so that either side can be displayed.

A floor merchandiser of this type includes approximately $30 worth of games at retail value, all scientifically selected following actual research as to the sales ratio of each specific style number

HERE ARE SOME FACTS ABOUT WARDS DOLLS TO HELP YOU IN MAKING YOUR SELECTION

OVER 100 DOLLS FROM WHICH TO CHOOSE. Carefully selected from the standpoint of quality in materials and workmanship. Wards work closely with leading manufacturers in planning all details, to bring you the finest available in dolls.

DOLL BODIES. Baby dolls are made of soft plastic or latex stuffed with cotton; have soft, life-like vinyl plastic heads, the finest quality made. Soft molded rubber is used for drinking-wetting dolls. Girl dolls that stand or walk are made of hard plastic, lightweight, almost unbreakable, permit finer modeling.

EYES may be painted, plastic inset or moveable sleeping eyes. Best sleeping eyes are Glassene (celluloid iris over a steel base) with "real" lashes. Lashes on inexpensive dolls are painted on.

CLOTHING varies in fabric, fitting and finishing. Finest dolls have clothing of best quality fabrics; trim and finishing is detailed, dresses have snap fasteners or button closings.

DOLL WIGS. All Wards dolls wigs (except on miniatures) are made of Saran—a synthetic product that has the sheen and texture of beautiful human hair. It can be washed, set and curled. Girl dolls on these two pages have wigs of long strands of Saran, firmly stitched to a cloth foundation. Many baby dolls have "rooted" Saran hair (see Page 140), which won't pull out.

A DIFFERENT KIND

W. A. Edmundson doesn't consider his store one that neither advertises nor promotes. The thousands of dollars tied up in merchandising is looked on by him as advertising because it pays a return by keeping old customers and making new ones. He expects the new building with its ultra-modern shopping features, to be his biggest and best promotion yet.

ROLE OF CIGARETTES

The American Cancer Society has launched a study to determine if there is any relation between lung cancer mortality and cigarettes. ACS volunteers have recorded the smoking habits of 204,000 men between the ages of 50 and 69. A certain percentage of these men die each year and the cause of their death is recorded and checked against their known smoking pattern. In about 18 months, the ACS should know whether there is any clear relationship between heavy smoking and lung cancer

"And I have been getting a couple of youngsters out of diapers and onto their two feet where they can amuse themselves while we are busy," added Virginia.

"That is a full time job in itself," I agreed. "What about reading, or music?"

NEW TOY IDEAS

"We read when we get a chance," said Dix, "but actually most of our spare time, even when we are on the boat, or getting the children into a tractable mood, involves working out some new idea for production. You know how that is. An idea keeps running 'round and 'round in your head, no matter how you try to forget it

Indeed I do, for I have the same trouble. Not making toys, but trying to figure out what to write about them

It seems quite obvious, after this pair of "chats," that there seems to be no limit to the kind of toys being made on the west coast; toys that have become a "must" on the counters all over the country.

the years we continue to sell the same staple educational toys toys that teach color, dimension, coordination. Although there are improvements in design and materials over the years, the items stay basically the same.

"Recently everything with an educational flavor has gained over the plain pull-toys and mechanical items," Mr Levin adds. "But those mechanical toys which lend themselves to being taken apart and put together are selling better than ever."

Chicago toy men are agreed, it seems, that in all age groups the toys that offer children the most active participation will continue to gain ground this Fall

My Big Box of Things to Do

One of Whitman's newest boxed numbers (5692) contains a cellophane wrapped tray with scissors, pencil and 3 rolls of colored flint paper, plastic paint kit with 8 assorted colored paints, brush and 6 wax crayons, cellophane package with 2 sewing cards with tipped cord laces, 4 folders with different "fun" material, picture stickers, stencils, color dots, and paper for making chains, baskets, weaving, etc. Also included is a supply of pictures to color, colored construction paper and blank white paper.

This "Big Box" has been worked out to provide many hours of play for the very young child. It retails for $1.98 and is available from the WHITMAN PUBLISHING COMPANY, Racine, Wisconsin.

Easy Dog Trainer

Spat is a lightweight plastic stick with double clappers. A light tap makes a loud "clacking" noise that dogs pay attention to. It is harmless, because the purpose of Spat is to surprise rather than hurt a dog. Bright red in color, dogs soon learn to obey commands when they see Spat, hear Spat, feel Spat. It takes the place of folded newspapers and other devices now used to slap dogs into obedience. With Spat, it's easy to correct such dog faults as jumping, licking, barking and scratching furniture

Spat retails for $1.25 and is sold through jobbers. Manufactured by PIONEER PET SUPPLY, Oak Park, Ill.

Clarabell

A new "Bend-Me" Clarabell, a foam rubber toy wired throughout for bending, and patterned after the famous "Howdy Doody" character, has been issued by BEN-HER INDUSTRIES INC., 11 W. 42nd St., New York. The colorful clown is packed in a polyethylene bag with a descriptive cartooned flap, 24 to a shipping carton. It stands 12 inches high. The suggested retail price is $1.98.

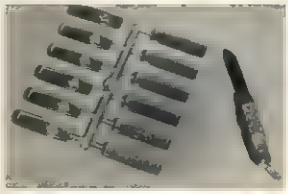
Paratrooper Carbine

This Paratrooper Carbine, with flexible bayonet, shoots harmless pellets. The carbine is 30" long, of rich walnut tone with gun-metal trim. Silver flexible blade on bayonet, made of durable plastic to withstand hard usage. Also included is a separate two-way target, and detailed illustrated instructions.

Packed two dozen to a carton by MACO TOYS, 276 Nostrand Ave., Brooklyn 5, N. Y. Suggested retail price is $2.98.

New Package for Doll Shoes

FAIRYLAND TOY PRODUCTS, INC., 200 Fifth Ave., New York, has recently introduced a new package designed to match its colorful dolls' shoes. This pink and blue box features an acetate window to show off the contents to best advantage. Each shoe size comes in a different size box, totalling seven in all, since Fairyland shoes are available in sizes 00 to 5, to fit any doll from 12 inches to 25 inches. Each box carries an identifying number, together with a listing of the doll sizes that the particular shoe will fit. The shoes themselves are molded of flexible vinylite plastic, and are washable, and scuff-and-stain resistant.



Girl Scouts' Knife

A harmonious combination of metal and plastic is demonstrated in the Girl Scouts' Knife of Utica Cutlery Co., for which a lustrous green Tenite casing is molded by GEMLOID CORP., 78-01 Queens Blvd., Elmhurst, N. Y.

The butyrate plastic makes a decorative contrast with the grey steel blade and is at the same time functionally effective, for it is as tough as it has to be to stand up under the rough treatment the girls may give it in actual use. Chip-proof, thick enough to take a fall without damage, unaffected by perspiration and grease, the plastic parts are as durable as the metal parts of the knife.

The decorative quality of the plastic is enhanced by a gilt "three-dimensional" monogrammed escutcheon Gemloid molds into one side of the casing.

Streamliner Train Set

A new "Wannatoy" Streamliner Train Set is now available from the SMITH-BENNY SALES CO., INC., 11 W. 42nd St., New York, national representatives of the Dillon-Beck Mfg. Co. Retail priced at 49c, the new set is packaged in cellophane, and includes a locomotive, observation car, and two Pullmans in assorted plastic colors. This "Wannatoy" No. 408 is packed two dozen to the shipper—weight six pounds. The train size is 23½" long by 1⅜" high by 1" wide.

Sock-It Rock-It

The latest item to be licensed by the Kagran Corp., owners of the Howdy Doody TV package, is the Howdy Doody Sock-It Rock-It, a toy punching bag with the face of Clarabell the clown on one side. Molded of Celanese acetate plastic by KUSAN, INC., Nashville, Tenn., the helmet is distributed by the Southern Athletic Company of Knoxville, Tenn. An interior lining of leather-covered foam rubber serves as a shock absorber for the helmeted player.

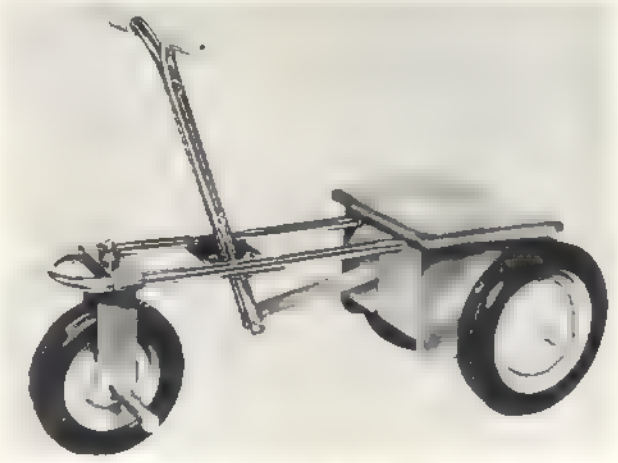
Buckley's Irish Mail Features Chain Drive, One Front Wheel



Back again to thrill today's youngsters is the Irish Mail, one of the most popular juvenile wheel toys of the past generation. Manufactured by the Buckley Manufacturing Company, 4223 W. Lake Street, Chicago, the present-day version is said to contain a number of new design improvements.

A single front wheel replaces the old-style double wheel, eliminating the hazard of foot jams. The chain drive transmission is described as an exclusive feature of the Buckley Irish Mail, and although it is as fast as a bicycle its low gravity center makes for safe operation.

The young operator sits on an adjustable, weather-proof Duran upholstered seat. Two 10-inch ball-bearing steel wheels at the rear have semi-pneumatic tires and are driven by an authentic automotive-type transmission. The front wheel, eight inches in diameter, is equipped, also, with a semi-pneumatic rubber tire.

Bright red enamel covers the steel gear housing and wheels. The frame and handle are constructed of sturdy, lusterized steel tubing. Handle grips are rubber.

The Buckley Irish Mail is 32" long, 13½" wide and 11" high. In individual cartons and completely assembled, the retail selling price is $19.95. Well calculated to provide fun and healthful exercise for boys and girls from three to 10, the toy now is ready for distribution.

Inland Mfg. Company Combines Tractor, Power Shovel Units

Heeding requests made by the trade at the Toy Fair, the Inland Manufacturing Company, 163 Ellicott Street, Buffalo 3, N. Y., has introduced a combination Tractor and Power Shovel Unit. This was accomplished by joining their Tractor and standard Power Shovel Unit.

Retailing at $39.95, this unit accommodates children from three to eight; a larger model, No. S11546, can be used by children aged three through 12.

The Power Shovel is operated 100 per cent from the driver's seat by means of Inland's semi-hydraulic feature and can be raised, lowered or held at any height. The bucket adjustment is also fully controlled from the driver's seat. He can dump or pick up a partial or full load, adjust the bucket to act as a bulldozer, grader, and so forth.

All the Tractall equipment fits on all models, the manufacturer adds.

SWITCH AND BE SMART

The average front wheel of an American standard bicycle can travel about 10,000 miles before it is worn. Because of heavier traction, the rear wheel tire can go 6,000 miles. To get the best mileage from both and save money, cyclists should interchange the tires on their bicycles at regular intervals.

ADVANCE DOLL'S "TAMA TALKER" TALKS, SINGS, RECITES RHYMES

A winsome little girl who "talks a blue streak" for over a minute is the newest addition to the dolls manufactured by The Advance Doll & Toy Company, West Haven, Conn.

Called "Tama Talker," she talks, sings and recites rhymes—all by means of a recording mechanism and motor concealed within the doll.

The records, which are interchangeable, include rhymes such as "one, two, buckle my shoe," and in addition, Tama laughs and asks to be picked up.

Standing 25-inches tall, she has a soft body, vinyl head, arms and legs, rooted saran wig in either pony tail or bob style; and boasts embossed dresses designed by Rita Langley of the J & R Langley Co., Manchester, N. H.

Manufactured to retail at $14.95, "Tama Talker" talks by means of records made by Columbia Recording Company.

"We expect 'Tama' to do as big a job as her sister, Winnie and Wanda," said Bill Ardolino, representing Advance at its New York sales office, 366 Fifth Avenue. "We feel she'll be a sensational 'Advance' in doll styling and doll selling."

Winnie and Wanda are both described as self-propelled dolls, moving unaided by means of a winding mechanism and motor which took five years and almost $50,000 to develop. Winnie walks unaided, talks, sings and recites—while Wanda walks alone but doesn't talk. Winnie retails at $24.95; Wanda at $10.95.

$1 DO-IT-YOURSELF SETS FROM THE ART ROSS FIRM

Art Ross, 22 East 17 Street, New York City, has introduced a series of "do it yourself" sets selling at $1 each. Each includes a 64-page illustrated instruction book loaded with projects, and many assorted materials to be used in conjunction with the book.

All the sets, a total of five, are packaged in attractive, multicolored, storefront-style packages. The five are: Drawing Made Easy, #100, with book and art materials; Paper Fun, #200, paper projects, a book, scissors, etc.; Hobby Fun, #300; Things to Do, #400; and Things to Make, #500. Each set is 9¾ by 8¾" in size.

BASEBALL GAME USING CARDS INTRODUCED BY LORD & FREBER

A new big league strategy baseball game is being introduced by Lord & Freber, Inc., 6536 De Longpre Avenue, Hollywood 28, Cal. Called Line Drive, the game is played with special cards to simulate actual baseball action. Every move is an example of baseball strategy. Two or more persons can play.

The game has reportedly been approved by professional baseball players and sports writers alike.

The standard set retails for $2.95 and is packed one dozen to a carton, shipping weight 17 pounds. Lord & Freber also makes a Line Drive pocket set which sells for $1.95 and is packed one dozen to a cartoon, shipping weight 7 pounds.

TOY INDUSTRY LEADS ALL OTHERS IN NEARING RED CROSS QUOTAS

The toy industry, as of the latter part of April, had accomplished 87 per cent of its Red Cross quota as compared with the 64 per cent recorded by all the other industries in the Red Cross Commerce and Industry Division.

This fact was disclosed by Charles

Charles S. Raizen

Raizen, president of Transogram and chairman again this year of the toy industry's campaign. Mr. Raizen has been awarded a citation for meritorious service on behalf of the Red Cross in 1954.

"I would like to express my thanks and appreciation to all those in the toy business who have cooperated so nicely in helping our industry take the lead in furthering this good cause, the Red Cross," Mr. Raizen commented.

JOSEPH PIZZO OF MY-TOY DIES MAY 4TH IN 41ST YEAR

It is with deep regret that PLAYTHINGS reports the death on Tuesday, May 4, of Joseph Pizzo. Mr. Pizzo in his 41st year at the time of his passing, was well known to buyers throughout the country as the representative of My-Toy Company, Inc., of Brooklyn, N. Y.

He had been connected with the toy industry, both in a manufacturing as well as a selling capacity, since his youth. His penchant for hard work and his devotion to his family and friends earned for him a lasting place in their memories.

Funeral services for Mr. Pizzo were held in New York City. He is survived by Mrs. Joseph Pizzo and their two children.

American Toy and Furniture Announces Restyled Pkges.

In an attempt to help retailers increase their "on-the-counter" toy sales, the American Toy and Furniture Company, 6130 N. Clark Street, Chicago, has restyled and redesigned their hobby line packages of woodburning and combination craft sets. Emphasis has been placed upon presenting a more effective sales message on the "inside" of the carton as well as the outside.

Repeated tests, states ATF, have shown that retailers invariably remove the cover on merchandise to display the contents. In most cases this automatically removes the sales message, descriptive matter and product identification. In the new American Teach-N-Fun packages, when covers are removed a stronger, more dramatic sales message is revealed, resulting in greater product recognition, and an immediate word/picture association—an efficient 'selling' combination.

In addition, modern product items have been included in each set, and inside construction has been streamlined, to stress compactness and increased parts visibility. Striking color combinations, self-opening, fan-shaped side leafs and a fine selection of woodburning plaques all lend themselves to greater display value and enhance the sales potential.

Each woodburning and combination craft set includes the well-known U. L. Approved Electronic Wonder Pen (with replaceable tips) that can perform a variety of effects in wood, plastics, leather and tile.

New! Super DeJur TWIN LENS REFLEX

Brings new precision to your color or black and white photography. Makes your pictures take on a professional, expert look. Each picture is sharply focused, well arranged, correctly centered. You know as you snap the shutter exactly how your subject looked to your camera at that instant. The image is visible to you all the time—even as the picture is snapped.

Full Vision Ground Glass Lens presents you with a full-size look at your finished picture before you shoot. Fresnel field lens with an exclusive ring-free spot in the center makes images as easy to focus as on finest ground glass. Aluminum alloy surfaced reflex mirror-lens stays bright—is held in a spring supported metal frame that protects glass from shock.

Over-sized Magnifier is mounted on wide canopy that prevents stray light from dulling brilliance of image while focusing. Push button operation. Direct vision finder simplifies taking action pictures—creates natural eye-level viewpoint. Coated, color-corrected lens assures the finest color photography. Simple depth-of-field scale shows exact range of sharp focus for each lens setting. Wide-focusing range provides crystal-clear close-up shots as close as 3 feet. Parallax compensation assures "what you see, you'll get"

"Tiny Tears"...Cries Real Tears

"TINY TEARS" is the lovable and appealing baby doll that you have seen advertised in national magazines and on the "Ding Dong School" television program. She actually cries just like a little child—big, wet tears well up in her eyes and trickle down her chubby cheeks. Not only can you see—and hear—her cry, she also sleeps, drinks her bottle, wets her diaper, and even blows bubbles with her own little bubble pipe. Tiny Tears can be bathed too, because her plump body is made of soft molded rubber. Arms and legs are jointed. Plastic turning head has [illegible]. Lashes. SCALE MODEL OF "WHITE HOUSE" WITH 9 PRESIDENTS 3.79

(C) (Shown opposite page, rear view at right above). An Absolutely Authentic Scale Model of Our Nation's White House as it is today . . . complete, correct to the windows, columns, exits and entrances. A child can become familiar with every part of its exterior even though he has never visited this historic building. It is so accurately scaled that he will be getting a three-dimensional impression of the home of our presidents. The building, 18½x13x6 in., is made of plastic in the same dazzling white that the White House actually is; realistically molded to show the structure itself, plus the driveway and surrounding landscaping.

With it there are amazing, lifelike figurines of nine of our presidents (see opposite page). Facial expressions are so minutely detailed, so typical, the poses so characteristic that you can recognize the presidents easily. Each figure is about 2¾ in. tall, stands on a platform bearing his name, numerical sequence, term of office. Set includes: Presidents Eisenhower, Truman, Franklin D. Roosevelt, Hoover, Coolidge, Harding, Wilson, Lincoln and Washington. (So that a child can have a collection of all thirty-three presidents we sell the remaining 24 separately below). Plus a 4x5-in. book of Pictures and Facts about the Presidents.

There are so many entertaining and enlightening hours of play and learning in store with this fascinating set. Children become acquainted with the presidents, learn to place them chronologically. Parents, teachers will find it a worthwhile addition at home or in schoolroom. Parts of building snap or lock into place so child can assemble it easily.

—Pause for Station Identification—

"This is REMCO*... molded of CATALIN Styrene"

It's a thrill-transmitting toy — an Electronic Radio Station impressively BIG.. a mammoth center of exciting communications.

Structurally, less than two pounds of high impact CATALIN STYRENE go into the sturdy molding of the switchboard, towers, searchlight, microphones and controls.

Aside from the REMCO station's important educational factors and far-reaching (half-mile) play values, it is amazing how much unit-product the gem of plastics can so satisfactorily turn out — and how little need be allotted to material cost. Knowing the low retail price of the complete spectacular (including batteries accessories, log book and dramatic package display), it would seem that this item is right "on the beam".

Whenever you are planning a product whose material element must be light, strong, colorful and cost-favorable, we invite you to tune in and hear what CATALIN STYRENE has to offer.

One pattern that Mr. Gerber sees definitely this year is that much buying is being done along price lines. According to his observations, nothing over $10 is being given much chance with the consumer.

OVERCAREFUL

Alice Hedger of Hedger Associates characterized the Christmas buying this year as "hand to mouth" ordering.

"We know business is good and the season's going to be good," she declared. "But we don't know if the ordering's going to be too late for the jobbers and manufacturers."

As far as price buying goes, Mrs Hedger doesn't believe the price tag has much to do with how well an item goes. "If it's 'hot' and a good value," she says, "it will go whether it's $5 or $10." However, toys over $10 won't get much action this year in her opinion.

PUBLIC CONSERVATIVE

She attributes this low-end action to economic factors. Although the buying power of the man on the street may not have decreased particularly, she feels it hasn't been improved any, either. Therefore, she figures there won't be any concerted movement toward big-ticket items.

Her comments about staples is indicative of the all-year trend in toy sales. "Many an item that started as a 'novelty,'" she said, "is now a 'staple.'"

"HOT" PISTOL

To illustrate her point, she pointed to the Nichols' Cap Pistol line. It has gained greatly by receiving a citation from Parents' Magazine. Although most of its competition is in the low price category, this line, she said, sells all year round and is a constant stock item with most dealers. The line features a .38 and a .45, selling at $1.49 and $3.49, respectively.

Another staple, Durable Toys & Novelties' "Uncle Sam" register bank got a publicity boost by being featured on the cover of Sears' current catalog, Mrs. Hedger said. And present orders indicate that it's going to sell well over the holidays, she added.

"Petal Craft" an Outstanding Success

Every year has its quota of unexpected toy "hits," the "sleepers" that immediately catch the imagination and dollars of consumers, jingling the cash registers of retailers throughout the country.

One of 1953's outstanding "hits" was Petal Craft, an educational toy that appeals strongly to the creative desires of the whole family. Its high buy-appeal can be attributed to the utter ease and joy with which these would-be Rembrandts and Picassos can "make beautiful pictures." Manufactured by Petal Craft, Inc. of Bound Brook, New Jersey, this new concept in creative fun consists of numerous interlocking, hyacinth-shaped petals in gleaming plastic, and in a variety of attractive colors. When arranged and re-arranged on an accompanying perforated board, an unlimited number of designs or pictures can be created.

Originally offered to only a limited number of distributors in 1953, Petal Craft caught on with such rapidity that the new company was literally swamped with orders, deluged with unsolicited testimonials and hard-put to meet demand. Proof of its sell-on-sight appeal can be deduced from the fact that F.A.O. Schwarz sold 3,000 sets in one season! In fact, the company was forced to offer special packages containing extra petals, at a retail price of 30 cents per package, in response to numerous requests for such an item. This resulted in extra sales volume for retailers who found themselves completely sold out after Christmas, minus Petal Craft sets and extra petals.

Adding to the success of the product was the company's alert promotional policy. For example, the company supplied a free display panel, only 12" x 20" in size

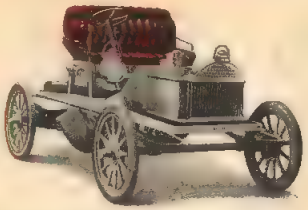
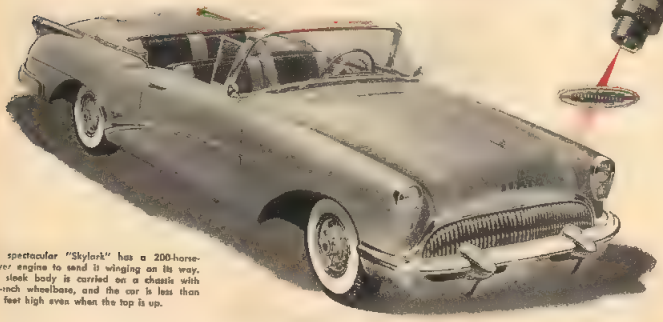
What a Difference

Between the Oldest and the Newest

BUICK



This 1903 "buckboard" model was the earliest of all Buicks. It had neither windshield nor mudguards, but it did have a two-speed transmission and a dependable two-cylinder engine which developed 21 horsepower



The spectacular "Skylark" has a 200-horsepower engine to send it winging on its way. The sleek body is carried on a chassis with 122-inch wheelbase, and the car is less than five feet high even when the top is up.

And What a Difference in Plug Performance Since AC Developed the Patented CORALOX Insulator

AC SPARK PLUGS

PATENTED CORALOX INSULATOR

Original Equipment on Nearly as Many New Cars and Trucks as All Other Makes Combined

The 1903 Buick was as much a sensation in its day as the sleek new "Skylark" is today. But what a difference that half century has made in Buick appearance and performance! AC Spark Plugs have a similarly brilliant record of improvements—the latest and greatest of which is the patented CORALOX Insulator.

CORALOX has no chemical attraction for the oxide coatings resulting from the burning of leaded fuels. What's more—CORALOX is so amazingly strong that AC can use longer, thinner insulator tips which heat up faster to burn away oil and wet carbon. Since CORALOX resists both oxide and carbon coatings—the most frequent causes of plug misfiring—many farmers—

- GET UP TO 10% MORE POWER
- SAVE UP TO ONE GALLON OF GASOLINE IN TEN

The next time you change plugs in car, truck or tractor, insist on ACs. You will soon see the difference patented CORALOX makes in performance and economy.

"Car of the future" styling comes true in five General Motors cars you can buy today

Once more, General Motors leads the style parade—with five brilliant examples of what the new style trend will be for the years ahead

Here are the smart new sweep of line—the low, swift look—the arching new expanse of backswept windshield glass—and a host of advanced new engineering features—that were found in GM's "dream cars" only a few short months ago.

But they are dreams no longer. Today they are real. For even as people looked with longing at those "cars of the future," the toolmakers and the diemakers were busy on the tasks which turned them into production models for 1954.

So now we have ready for your appreciative appraisal the newest, smartest, and most advanced line of automobiles that has come to market in many a year.

Come see them, and we think you'll agree.

GENERAL MOTORS

THE 1954 MERCURY, with its entirely new overhead valve engine, topped other cars compared in test-track runs for performance, for easy handling, for safe, sure control, at all times. Although 28% more powerful than last year's Mercury, it can give you even more miles per gallon.

Now—161-Horsepower V-8

—and see how easy it makes any driving!

FAR-EASIER PASSING—NEW 4-BARREL CARBURETOR automatically releases Mercury's emergency reserve power when needed for safer passing.

FAR-EASIER CORNERING—NEW BALL-JOINT RIDE—Another first in-its-field for Mercury for sports-car stability, matchless control.

FAR EASIER HILL CLIMBING. No strain, no hesitation. You maintain your speed effortlessly—with plenty of power still left in reserve.

MAKE DRIVING AS EASY AS YOU WANT with optional 4-way power seat, power steering, power brakes, Merc-O-Matic Drive, electric window lifts.

Your first ride will prove it . . . here's an entirely new kind of power for a popular-priced car.

It's smoother, more efficient power with tremendous reserve capacity. It's more restful power—as quiet as the wind slipping by. And it's safer, more sensitive power—responds faster to your touch.

The new 1954 Mercury is designed to make driving safer, easier. Your Mercury dealer invites you to come in and see for yourself.

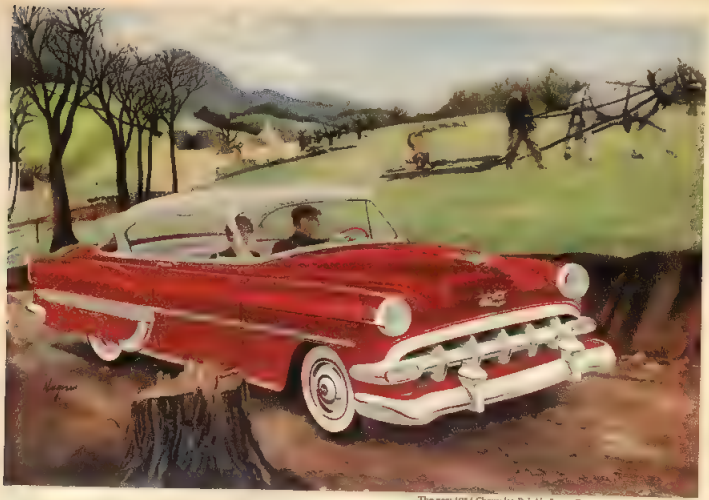
New 1954 MERCURY

MERCURY DIVISION · FORD MOTOR COMPANY



The new 1954 Chevrolet Bel Air Sport Coupe. With three great [illegible] Chevrolet offers the most beautiful choice of [illegible] in its field

How Chevrolet gets more power and more miles out of gasoline!

The new 1954 Chevrolet brings you new power plus new economy. You not only get increased horsepower and finer performance, but you also enjoy money-saving gasoline mileage every mile you drive. And that goes for both town and country driving

NEW PERFORMANCE is the first thing you'll discover when you take a new Chevrolet out on the road. You get under way and pull around other cars more positively and safely. You breeze up steep hills with new ease. And as you cover the miles, you can't help but notice how long the gas gauge stays at the "full" mark. It takes a long time and a lot of miles to move over to "empty"!

NEW HIGH-COMPRESSION POWER is the reason behind these important advantages. And you get it whether you choose a new Chevrolet gearshift model powered by the advanced "Blue-Flame 115" engine, or one with Powerglide (optional at extra cost) and the great "Blue-Flame 125" engine. Both of these engines have a compression ratio of 7.5 to 1—highest in any leading low-priced car. This means that the fuel mixture is squeezed more tightly to make every drop of gas work harder and go farther.

THERE'S MUCH MORE THAT'S NEW awaiting you in the lowest-priced line in the low-price field. New beauty, for example, and a complete choice of automatic power features. Why not plan to pay a "fact-finding" visit to your Chevrolet dealer's soon! . . . Chevrolet Division of General Motors, Detroit 2, Michigan.

POWERGLIDE NOW AVAILABLE ON ALL MODELS: Now you can enjoy Chevrolet's own and America's most popular automatic transmission on all models in all three series. Powerglide, you know, is the zippy thrifty automatic transmission with no jerks or jars to mar its smoothness. Teamed with its own special engine, Powerglide is optional at extra cost.

Here comes the CENTURY

highest-powered car at its price in America!

CAN you imagine what will happen when you put Buick's 200-horsepower V8 engine into a car that rolls off the assembly line at 3852 pounds?

One thing's certain — you'll get action.

You'll get, in literal fact, the action of the CENTURY—for that's the proud name you'll find on this, the most phenomenal performer in Buick history.

All you need is a gentle nudge of the pedal that feeds this eager bundle of horsepower — and you'll maintain the pace of those around you, with unbelievable ease.

On getaway, in cruising, at hill-climbing, you seem to sail—and you'll still have the major share of your power in reserve.

Here is, in fact, more power than the average driver will normally need or use—but it's there to make everyday driving more pleasant — and to give you quick action if needed in a pinch, in a traffic tight-spot, or in a sudden emergency.

Along with this power you get the "tomorrow" styling which distinguishes all 1954 Buicks. You get new room and comfort—and the new economy of Power-Head Pistons, which boost the gasoline mileage of every Buick engine.

And the price? This brilliant CENTURY is priced substantially below the highly popular SUPER—at a figure that gives you more horsepower per dollar than any other American car on the road.

So — visit your Buick dealer — and sample the most thrilling buy on the automotive horizon.

"Champion Spark Plugs help us till the soil on which 'Light Horse Harry' Lee camped in 1779"

—says MR. VERNON HULL, Manager, Lee's Hill Farm, New Vernon, N. J.

When "LightHorse Harry" Lee, then a Major, combined three continental cavalry troops and one infantry unit to form Lee's Legion, the camp ground he selected was a hill a few miles below Morristown, N.J. Today, Lee's Hill is both the site and the name of the farm owned by Mr. and Mrs. Warren Kinney—a farm devoted to the breeding and developing of Brown Swiss cattle. This 115 head herd has been a consistent winner of top honors for the breed Again Premier Breeder and Exhibitor at the Waterloo show, the 1953 honors included eight blue ribbons and Grand Champion cow. In addition, the Grand and Reserve Champion bulls and the Reserve Champion cow were bred at the farm. The farm's top producer, Royal's Rapture of Lee's Hill –eleven years old, Excellent for type, Grand Champion in 1949—already has a butterfat production total of over 7000 pounds.

Vernon Hull, Farm Manager, says, "In the over 60 years the Kinneys have had Lee's Hill, the farm's first and main job has been the continuous improvement of the Brown Swiss Breed. Everything else has to contribute to this project. As far back as I can remember we have made a practice of using Champion Spark Plugs. Their dependability in any kind of engine in all kinds of weather has been a real help in the efficient operation of the farm and the successful development of our herd."

CHAMPION SPARK PLUG COMPANY, TOLEDO 1, OHIO

Lee's Hill has well kept buildings and much well thought-out equipment. For example, tractor-spreader units are loaded below ground level with the manure brought directly from the barn on a conveyor. A gate-like section of the track swings clear when not in use.

Besides this two-ton truck, the farm has a panel truck, a pick-up, three tractors, combine, and field chopper plus the farm cars. All engines are equipped with Champion Spark Plugs.

The farm's famous Brown Swiss breeding herd has been in operation since 1890. Classified "Excellent" cows bred at Lee's Hill have made the seven highest production records in the breed.

It pays to standardize on—

DEPENDABLE

CHAMPION

—for every type of farm engine!

Lee's Hill Farm proper covers 300 acres with 200 additional acres leased. One hundred acres is in pasture, 100 in hay, 55 in corn, 40 in barley, and 30 in oats. There is also a 20-acre orchard. The farm has a beautiful natural setting with many stately, century-old trees.

Other body styles are the distinctive Victoria, the Country Squire, and the Sunliner, America's favorite convertible.

Fairbanks-Morse Super Spark Magnetos defy breakdown — eliminate costly ignition tie-ups. Built in one compact self-contained unit—oversize high tension coils—large long lasting breaker points—ball bearing supported one piece magnetic rotor. Years of field service prove their dependability and endurance. Types for most engines.

IMPULSE COUPLING ASSURES FAST STARTING

An impulse coupling of simple yet unusual design is part of every Super Spark Magneto.

The impulse action of the coupling intensifies the starting spark supplied at low speeds, while at the same time automatically retarding the ignition spark—disengagement at higher speeds is automatic.

Years of proven service attest to their quality and dependability.

Ministry of Agriculture issued orders "to alleviate the meat shortage" as follows: "All sows of more than eight months of age must become pregnant by the end of July at the very latest. If a cow has delivered, she must again be pregnant within a maximum of seventy-five days. In order to increase egg production, farmers are to supply every twelve hens with one rooster and every three geese with one gander. Nonfulfillment of the production will be punishable as economic sabotage."

FOR WINTER SPORT this column recommends rat killing. If rats are too big game, how about going after Mus Musculus, who wreaks more damage then any other animal except the rat. Despite his big damage, he is about the smallest of rodents. His Latin name means "little thief"; we know him as the house mouse. He can be trapped more easily than the rat. Peanut butter makes choice bait, as do bacon, cake, and chocolate. Mice like warfarin, too. Put it around in Mason jar lids, or, better yet, cut mouse holes in the ends of cigar boxes, and put warfarin inside.

The mouse is a cute little fellow, who considers granaries, cribs, and barns as suitable to contaminate and destroy in, as does the repulsive rat. Whether he can be exterminated I don't guess. Any farm can exterminate all its rats if one person will make it his business to keep plenty of warfarin in the right places for a month.

A BRITISH nutritionist, Mr F. Le Gros Clark, has written: "It used to be said that every new baby born brought a pair of hands into the world, as well as a stomach to be fed. That is still true - but unfortunately it does not bring also a fresh acre of cultivatable soil. . ."

* * * *

THE BIG QUESTION this year: Shall we continue to pile overwhelming surpluses on to the government until their weight crashes the farm economy, or until consumer-taxpayers turn, completely against farmers? Or will it be better to pursue moderate programs that can lead to real prosperity?

The New "Daily Dolly"

Anne Fadden of the A & H Doll Co., 43-12 50th St., Woodside, New York, has done it again. Finding answers to buyers' problems is Mrs. Fadden's specialty, and this reputation is well supported by her latest creation. A delightful addition to the nationally famous "Marcie Doll" family, it is a doll-and-wardrobe combination appropriately named the Marcie Daily Dolly. No less than sixteen different costumes are now available, and more are in the process of being designed. Each costume is colorful and imaginative, and each one comes complete with irresistibly attractive accessories, so the doll can be dressed and outfitted for all the occupations of the day, every day of the week.

The dynamic Mrs. Fadden has achieved her objective, that of creating an attractive, high-quality doll-wardrobe combination, at the same time avoiding the high-price bugaboo of similar undertakings in the past. The doll itself is nine inches tall, made of unbreakable plastic. Everyone loves her; she can sit and walk, her eyes open and close, and her beautiful, realistic Saran hair can be combed and curled. Dressed in little panties, socks and shoes, she is a real heart-stealer, and retails at only $1.98.

But this is only half the story. Mrs. Fadden's answer to the problem of creating an extensive but low-priced wardrobe has been to pack the sixteen different costumes individually in attractive transparent box-trays, retailing at only $1.00 each. A typical example of the costumes now available is the one for a rainy day, which includes a yellow slicker, rain hood, boots, and umbrella. Another costume is for gardening, and packed so they can be seen alongside of the colorful little dress are a straw sun hat, a shovel, a rake, and a watering can.

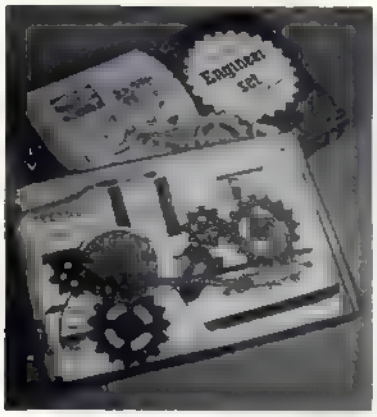
New Toys on Parade



Small Fry Engineer Set

PRESSMAN TOY CORP., 1107 Broadway, New York City 10, has a new toy preschool engineering set combining eye appeal, decorative packaging, and educational value. The set is endorsed by Parents Magazine.

Essentially, the toy is an action jigsaw puzzle with plastic gears and wheels which are assembled on various printed backgrounds to make up a train, a car, a steam boat, and a tractor. Once the child has the gears properly in place, he has an action toy with gears that turn in interlocking fashion to an accompanying clicking sound, like real engines would make.

Play-A-Story with Dolly

KENNER PRODUCTS CO., 912 Sycamore St., Cincinnati 2, has introduced a different, activity toy designed specifically to keep a little girl happy for hours.

Play-a-Story with Dolly takes place on a rainy day and the story takes the doll through the measles, into a disguise party, and finally off to bed. The set contains pills and a "Do not disturb" sign for sick dolly; there is make-up and a mirror for dolly when she dresses up for her party; there's a string and beads to be strung; and there is a get-well card and invitations for dolly's party to be sent. Also included are a scissors and disguises to be cut out, besides a game to be played by dolly and her friends.

The toy retails for $2, and is packed a dozen to the shipping case, weighing eight pounds.

Weather Station

Youngsters of all ages can observe, chart and forecast the weather with a new educational hobby kit. Easily assembled, the Weather Station includes complete parts for a desk barometer, an outdoor thermometer and a rain gauge.

With these instruments and the colorful weather manual observation charts and instruction sheet also included in the kit, any youngster can set up his own "home weather bureau" for years of instructive, absorbing fun.

Made by AIRGUIDE INSTRUMENT CO., 2210 Wabansia Ave., Chicago 47, the Weather Station is packed in a four-color lithographed box to retail for $10.

Peggy Falter Toys

PEGGY CLOTH-BOOKS, INC., 109 Worth St., New York 13, N. Y., has brought out a new line of "Peggy Falter Toys"—a group of foam-rubber stuffed animals and dolls 6" high, covered with brightly printed muslin in four fast colors.

The toys come in a variety of packages for different types of merchandising, including one in a durable, re-usable bag with a gift card on top so that the toy can be mailed "as is" for 3c postage anywhere in the U.S. It may be sold as a souvenir mailer, birthday greeting, toy enclosure, or stocking stuffer, or the store itself can use it in promotions as a give-away for the small customers. The toys double as bath sponges, too.

The items are also packed singly or in pairs in an acetate box. Suggested retail is $1 for the package of two without voices, $1.25 with voices; 50c for the mailer without voice, and 65c for the mailer with a voice. Voices in the toys are not harmed by daily dunkings. A pretty counter display goes along with each order free of charge.

NITE-LITE SHADOW BOX

An attractive new light for a child's room was described on page 182 of the July issue of TOYS & NOVELTIES, but the name of the manufacturer was omitted.

The Nite-Lite Shadow Box is available from HOBBY HILL, 225 N. Wabash Ave., Chicago 1, Ill.

Trade Shows Combine

TWO of the southwest's most important regional trade shows have agreed to combine next year's Houston show dates, August 15-18, according to President R. T. Thompson of the Houston Gift & Houseware Show, and chairman of the Chamber of Commerce Trade Show Committee, on conclusion of a meeting Tuesday with President R. B. Coffey and other officials of the Texas Cosmesis Club.

The gift show generally attracts the same buyers and retail representatives as the cosmetics show, emphasized Executive Secretary Walter Cousins of the Cosmesis Club, following the meeting, and the convenience offered by scheduling both shows on the same dates will attract more buyers to both than either show could attract separately.

More than 2,000 buyers saw 75 separate exhibits, occupying 94 rooms on four floors of the Ben Milam Hotel, in the Gift & Houseware Show last August 16-18.

Convenience to buyers in this area keynotes the proposed joint showing, Thompson pointed out, offering in Houston a wide selection among national brands.

Increasing attendance at both shows encourages the opinion that simultaneous scheduling will stimulate even greater growth, Coffey said. It has not yet been definitely determined whether or not both shows can be presented in the same hotel, with space requirements yet to be arranged, but locations will be chosen to assure convenience to buyers attending both shows.

While exhibits offered will not be limited to Christmas merchandise, the date for the joint showings permits buyers to do their Christmas shopping early for items to be sold at retail during the holiday trade the following three months.

This store was doing a nice summer toy business under the new buying guidance of Rudy Schwartz. They started promotions in February with about the same window space as last year, but more ads. May and June had been the best months so far. This season was ahead in business as compared with 1953. Rigid and inflated pools were running about even. Most popular price in rigid types, $12.98 and $14.98. Inflated $12.98. Gyms had been active at $29.95. Sand boxes, $8.98. Miniature dolls and baby types in larger sizes were moving. Best games, besides Scrabble, were Winky Dink and Beat the Clock.

Strawbridge & Clothier, Philadelphia—This store's toy department started promotions on summer goods in April. The best month so far had been June. Business this year was even with last, at this point. Rigid pools were about 60-40 over inflated numbers, with the most popular price in rigid types, $13.95; inflated, $12.95. Best action in gyms was at the $27.95 level; sand boxes, $12.95. Miniature dolls and baby dolls had carried their section through the summer. In games, Scrabble, Winky Dink, Hi-Q and Beat the Clock were moving. The Spitz Jr. Planetarium had been selling, and in wheel goods, better velocipedes were moving, as were 20" trainer bikes Gimbel's, Philadelphia—Joe Urban reported he was feeling fine and had been promoting summer toys since February Best month so far: June. But July looked like it would be better This store had been doing good business on a number of items without promotions such as games like Scrabble, Winky Dink and Beat the Clock. In heavier merchandise the most popular price in rigid pools was $15; inflated, $12.95; gyms, $19.95, sand boxes, $10 Business was about even with last year at this time. Girl dolls were still getting the call here A 16" trainer was still popular, but good velocipedes were noting an upward trend

Snellenburg's, Philadelphia — Joel Silverman was very enthusiastic about summer business in toys. He was sure figures were ahead of last

GROUCHO to Play His New Quiz Game on TV

PRESSMAN Toy Corporation, manufacturer of the new 'Groucho T. V. Quiz," a Toy Fair sensation, is happy to announce that plans have been completed for the one—the only G-R-O-U-C-H-O to plug the game on T V and radio on his nationwide program, "You Bet Your Life."

Fred Kroll of the Pressman sales staff, recently visited Groucho in Hollywood, to show him a completed sample of the game. Groucho was so enthusiastic that he immediately contacted his sponsor, the De Soto Company, and he arranged to plug the quiz game on radio starting Wednesday night, Sept. 29, and on TV starting Thursday night, Sept 30

The Groucho Quiz is another Lynn Pressman original, and is an example of Pressman's search for outstanding promotional toys and games. Incidentally, Mrs. Pressman is busy with her design staff, working on over 20 brand new items for 1955 Now that Pressman is set up in its new factory, of over 200,000 square feet, in Bush Terminal, Brooklyn, it has moved its far-flung manufacturing operations under one roof Included is a paper-box plant, a metal stamping plant, a plastic injection molding plant, a printing and die-cutting plant, and wood shop.

The trade may expect a series of diversified and interesting items from Pressman in the coming year.

RECESSION REALLY STRIKES!

The recession has struck the South Side in Chicago, according to a business man, 9 years of age, who says that things are very, very bad. You see, he has picked up an old baby carriage and stands in front of a store where he offers his services as a package-pusher to folks who come out of the store with bundles in their arms When he does land an order to cart some packages home, he gets a quarter or may be only a dime

It seems that most shoppers today as he sees it, are above the average in health and physique, and are able to tote their own packages home. And that, he says, makes the situation bad ery bad for those who, like himself, are in the package-pushing business.

...the racy, rugged

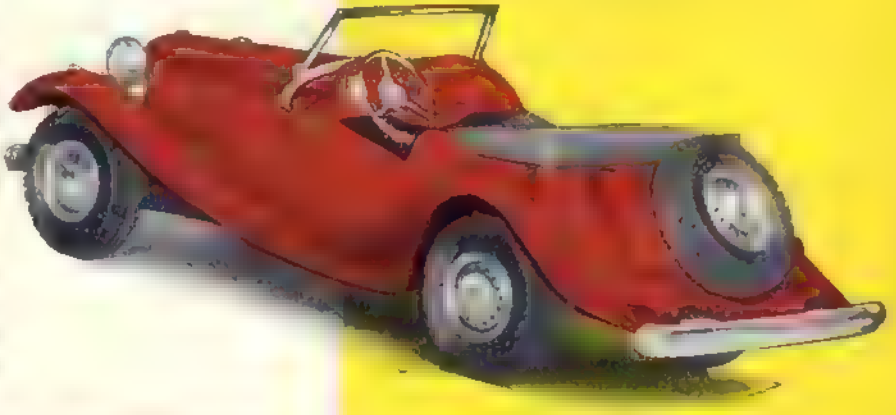
new Model MT Sports Car Kit!

Here's the finest, most completely different kit model ever produced. It's rugged, realistic and styled after the famous MG sports car—packed with customer appeal and profit potential.

Unlike cheaper, flimsily constructed kits, the Model "MT" is more than just something to look at. With over 50 precision-fitted parts, including semi-elliptical rear springs, it's an absorbing "father-and-son" project, requiring only a screwdriver for assembly. And when put together, it's a fascinating push-pull toy with steerable front wheels—a toy that would cost much more if factory-assembled.

The Model "MT" has wider sales scope than any other kit model ever devised. In addition to its "boy-and-dad" appeal, it's a "natural" for sports car lovers and hobbyists—an irresistible challenge to power enthusiasts—a unique collector's item.

Chrome-plate trim. Body finished in prime coat, permitting kit builders to apply own color schemes. Length, 15"; weight, 3 lbs. Price, $10.95. ($11.75 in 11 Western States).



SUPERB STRUCTURAL QUALITY!

The Model "MT" is built to the same high standards of world-famous Model Toys. Body is durable diecast construction, chassis is heavy-gauge steel. All parts are metal, except the seats and real rubber tires.

The "MT" Will Be Featured In Model Toys National Advertising, and will be in great demand.

BE SURE TO SEE IT AT THE TOY FAIR!

New "Communicator" for Sale in Toy Departments

Jay V. Zimmerman, president of Vintage Products Company, St. Louis Mo., national manufacturer of electronic play equipment, announces the introduction of Zimcom, a new type of intercommunicating system, into the consumer market on September 1, 1954, to be sold to and priced for toy departments, but technically perfect in its versatility, practicability and efficiency for adult use.

Manufactured originally for use by elementary and high school children, after leading educators and psychologists—who were consulted during the pre-testing of the Zimcom among an eight-to-eighteen age grouping -recommended it highly for its constructive play and educational values, the Zimcom has also been found to be excellent for use in business offices, schools, etc.

The Zimcom consist of two units, each unit operating on two standard "D" batteries and equipped with 50 feet of wire, which can be increased up to 100 feet. Each unit contains a 4" Alnico speaker for high fidelity transmission, a two-way switch and built-in buzzer for ease in use, and measures 4½" deep, 6¼" wide, 5 ¼" high. Simple to install and smartly styled in red plastic, the Zimcom is suitable for either shelf or desk placement. The set retails for $9.95

REPORT "GAMES SELL BIG" FROM FLOOR DISPLAY UNITS

"Since the introduction of floor display merchandiser units, the sales of boxed games retailing at 29c to $2 have increased considerably."

This information was released by James Makrianes, Jr., of National Games, Inc., West Springfield, Mass., following considerable test experience and research.

Heretofore, he states, the merchant has not been equipped to properly display games, having kept these on his shelves, under counters and inside cabinet drawers. Most game purchases, Mr. Makrianes reports, are bought by shoppers on impulse, and the wide variety of boxed games displayed on modern floor merchandiser units brings about multiple sales. Whereas some mothers enter a store to buy just one game for a specific purpose, they most frequently carry home with them several games because of suggestive-selling . . . games for pastime, for educational development, activity sets, games of chance and games of skill, he adds.

The illustration shows one of the many units now available, with an interesting assortment of colorful boxed games to retail at 29c to $2. A total of approximately $30 at retail, this is style No. N-50. Drug stores, gift shops, department stores, toy centers and other types of retail establishments are enthusiastically accepting this new method of merchandising because it has resulted in immediate sales increase, Mr. Makrianes asserts.

HEILMAN AND BLOCK NAMED COAST REPS BY EFFANBEE

Bernie Baum, president of the Effanbee Doll Corporation, 200 Fifth Avenue, New York City, announces the appointment of Heilman and Block as their sales representatives in the states of California, Oregon and Washington.

Bill Heilman has been active as a sales representative for major toy lines on the west coast for several years. Associated with Mr. Heilman, in partnership, is the well known Al Block, who for many years sold Effanbee Dolls in the eastern territory.

Heilman and Block maintain permanent showrooms in the Bendix Building, Room 514, 1206 South Maple Avenue, Los Angeles.

They will have on display at all times the full line of Effanbee dolls.

DONALD DUCK PUPPET SHAPED TO FIT HAND

Children should have fun working this Walt Disney Donald Duck marionette because it is so simple to manipulate. There are only four strings attached to the different parts of Donald's body. Shaped and sized to fit a child's hand is a "T" shaped unit which controls the marionette's movements. Donald can be made to walk, run, and dance just by moving the unit back and forth or side to side. He wears a colorful felt jacket and a sailor hat.

The marionette will be sold in department and toy stores across the country. The suggested retail price is 98c. Peter Puppet Playthings, Inc., 10 Box Street, Brooklyn, N. Y., is the manufacturer.

NAVS HAS 5 SHOWS SCHEDULED JULY-AUGUST

To keep pace with this growth and expansion of variety stores, the National Association of Variety Stores, Inc., 10-147 Merchandise Mart, Chicago, the non-profit trade group serving the independent market has announced the schedule for its show circuit covering the fall season of 1954. Five major marketing areas are to be served by five separate trade shows featuring 5c to $5 merchandise, including variety goods, gifts, housewares, novelties, jewelry, toys, soft goods, etc.

The Association will serve the southwest with a three-day show in Dallas, Texas, starting July 11. The southeast territory will be covered by a three-day event in Atlanta, August 15. A new show will open August 8 in St. Louis, serving the central states, while the mid-south has the Charlotte, N. C., show a three day event opening July 25 and coinciding with the Charlotte Gift Show. The Chicago Show is a five-day event, starting August 1.

In each of the cities operations will be conducted beginning with Sunday morning, a free day of buying utilized by more and more store operators. The entire circuit is so designed as to cover the five major marketing areas within two important buying months, thereby making possible five separate merchandise presentations in time to capitalize on fall business

And bicycle salesmen, quick to realize this, have really made it pay off. For them, EVANACTION is a terrific "closer," a "sales clincher" that has put new life in their sales and profit pictures. EVANS PRODUCTS COMPANY PUTS POWERFUL SELLING ADVANTAGES BEHIND THE POPULARLY PRICED EVANS-COLSON LINE

EVANS-COLSON PRESENTS A GREAT NEW BICYCLE SELLING FEATURE . . .

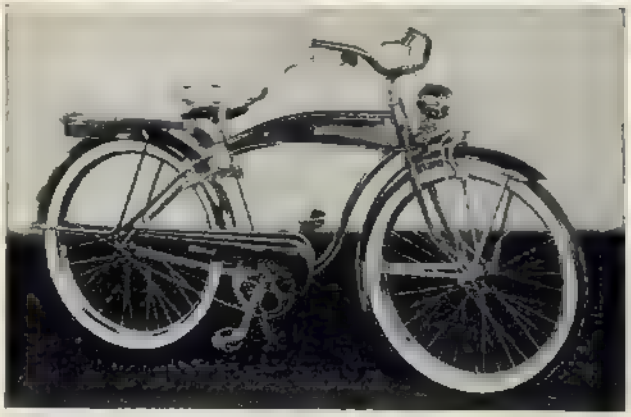
THE EVANACTION RIDE

. . . IT TAKES THE THUMP OUT OF THE BUMP!

It's a brand new concept in bicycle comfort, safety and performance! And it's exclusive with Evans-Colson. The Evanaction Ride works on an entirely new principle. Evanaction feels the bump . . . but the rider doesn't! It not only makes a smoother, more comfortable and less tiring ride, but also provides longer life for tires and frames, greatly lessens the chance of blowouts and sidewall breakage. The Evanaction Ride is the first genuine improvement in the bicycle ride in years. And only Evans-Colson has it!

Heavy-duty construction with heavily chromed, polished exterior assures trouble-free dependable service from the Evanaction mechanism.

Note how the Evanaction absorbs and smothers the bump. Greatly increased ease, comfort, safety and economy are made possible for the rider.



THE FIREBIRD WITH THE EXCLUSIVE EVANACTION RIDE

There's nothing else like this on the market! Exclusive Evanaction Ride — Hand caliper brakes front and rear — 3 speed rear hub — magnificent flamboyant finish in green or red, gold outline — chrome fenders, rims, tank, chain guard, and headlight — exclusive Evans chrome rear fender guard — built-in electric horn — automatic tail light — stoplight — white vinyl saddle with double coil chrome springs and crash rail. No boy could resist this beautiful, featureful unit!

THE IMPERIAL VELOCIPEDE

Evans brought in Harley Earl the celebrated designer to style this revolutionary advance in velocipede design. It's an Evans-Colson exclusive with wonderful features — double frame construction, ball bearing wheels and head fittings, chrome handlebars and rocket style truss rods, oversize chrome hubs. WAGON FEEDING — Here's how some farmers do it — As the crop is cut by the Forage Harvester, wagons are filled directly, then brought to the feeding area, where sideboards are lifted.

ADVANTAGES — heavy forage is unloaded by the cattle. Wagons are placed in a different feeding spot each day. Manure is spread more evenly by cows.

Bringing Pasture to the Cows with your own Forage Harvester and Self-Feeding Wagons

Wide interest has arisen in a new system of "mechanized grazing." Legume or grass pasture is field-chopped and brought to the cattle. It can be fed either fresh-cut daily, or ensiled for year 'round feeding.

Herd owners who have tried it say pasture produces more tonnage when harvested at the right time . . . by machine.

There is neither hoof damage nor over-grazing. Weeds are controlled. Cattle are kept quiet, no longer have to hunt for feed.

More energy goes into milk or meat.

With your own big-capacity Allis-Chalmers Forage Harvester, you are equipped for this and other money-making methods of livestock feeding. You can field-cut silage crops when they're exactly right . . . blossom perfect!

New Easy-Mount attachments readily interchange for almost any forage crop. Be ready when crops reach their protein peak. Field-cut them fast with minimum power . . . Allis-Chalmers style!

NEW! Easy-Mount

3-WAY ATTACHMENTS

New "SLIDE-LOCK" mounting principle permits easy interchange of grass and row-crop attachments. Windrow pickup attaches and detaches in minutes.

Power-sharpen the 3-foot wide, spiral-rupped cylinder knives without removing them from the machine.

Save hours of labor the Allis-Chalmers way — field-cut grass, corn or sorghum silage; chop hay; clip pastures; chop stalks or straw.

FORAGE HARVESTER

Here's a one-minute quiz that could bring you the jackpot. Certainly the saving of one lost or damaged hay crop can richly repay you for knowing the answers.

Do round bales save more leaves?

ANSWER: Yes, for a definite reason. The entire hay plant is rolled full length into the bale, with leaves sealed inside.

Does livestock prefer them?

ANSWER: Properly cured hay in round bales has a softness and leafiness preferred by all livestock. (A new Soft-Center Bale attachment for the ROTO-BALER aids curing and feeding.)

Are they more weather-resistant?

ANSWER: Round bales are more resistant to rain, melting snow, and ground moisture. Curved around the bale, stems shed water instead of leading it inside like lemonade through a straw.

Are they easy to handle and feed?

ANSWER: In many ways, easier. Round bales can't buckle. They nest compactly; are self-locking in load or stack. Can be fed whole in a feed-rack, or left for cattle on the range.

Do they cost less per bale?

ANSWER: Yes, because they save man-hours, machine hours, and tractor hours. The knotterless ROTO BALER uses ordinary binder twine, another great saving.

Can I bale faster?

ANSWER: You can turn out bigger tonnage faster, because the ROTO BALER takes a wide twin windrow. Cuts field travel distance in half.

Does the ROTO-BALER cost less to own?

ANSWER: True to Allis-Chalmers tradition, the ROTO-BALER is priced lower to permit home ownership on every farm. It doesn't cost, it PAYS — that's the final answer!

ROTO BALER is an Allis-Chalmers trademark.

Monahan Joins Toy Tinkers

The Toy Tinkers division of A. G. Spalding & Bros., Inc. with home offices at Evanston, Illinois, has announced the appointment of Dan Monahan to the staff. As eastern sales representative, for Toy Tinkers, Dan will have for his headquarters the New York office at 200 Fifth Avenue, Room 454.

He is new to the toy trade, but is learning fast under the excellent guidance of A. J. Liescke, sales manager, who has been with Toy Tinkers for 39 years. Dan had his initiation at the Toy Fair in March, when he met many buyers, and since then has traveled the eastern territory from Maine to Florida.

DAN MONAHAN

If Dan appears as "bright" as his picture, it could be because of his schooling. He earned a B. S. degree at Fordham University in 1949; attended Villanova College at Villanova, Pennsylvania, and Curtis High School, Staten Island. His "sharp look" can be attributed to 3½ years as a Lt. (j. g.), U. S. Navy; commissioned at Midshipmen School, University of Notre Dame.

And if Dan appears "real cool," maybe it's because he spent 4 years as a sales representative for Breyer Ice Cream Company, Newark, N. J.

"Mister" Monahan is married, has a family, and makes his home at 204 Webb Avenue, River Edge, New Jersey.

Pegboard is effectively used. American Merchandise is exclusive distributor for Spalding and Reach sporting goods in southern Florida. It also handles an extensive line of hobby and craft supplies. Policy of this jobber is to show only those items that are carried in stock, and to guarantee shipment on all orders which it accepts.

Beacon Sales Co., 555 N. W. 8th St., Miami, Florida, held its spring and summer show beginning January 20. J. Haber and M. Haber are owners of this toy and novelty jobbing house. Many new and novel items for the regular toy trade and for the tourist gift trade were displayed. This jobber has added large outdoor toys—play gym sets, pools and bikes — and has found the response saleswise is in complete accord with the move. Additional display space and a new style of display has allowed these men to double the number of items on display. Beacon, with its five salesmen, covers the entire southern half of the state of Florida Plans are being made to cover the entire state.

Geo. Schmidt Ready With New Guns

THE "Never-Miss" trigger action, precision-tooled Buck'n Bronc line will include three profit-making shooting irons: "Marshal," "Cowhand," and "Deputy," announces president and designer George Schmidt, of Geo. Schmidt Mfg. Co., Los Angeles.

They all possess the same unique Buck'n Bronc qualities. They're set for a fifty-shot repeater action, with speedy, safe reloading, easy for all children. Chrome finish or nickel plating round out the gun's handsome gleam.

The "Marshal," "Cowhand," and "Deputy" have rugged durability, to withstand the roughest, toughest cowboy play—no bolts or screws to work loose, because all parts are riveted! The handles are all-metal, as is the entire gun, and by actual test, all pieces are rustproof!

Laboratory-Tested

These same pistols played a prominent part in a national laboratory test, where, by certified count, the trigger action was repeated 100,000 times! Indications showed that action even beyond the last count is possible.

Selling is stimulated by eye-catching packages that depict the Wild West, with a whooping cowboy atop a leaping bucking bronc. For easy identification by consumer and retailer, the "Marshal" (B22) model is contained in a green and white package; the others, "Deputy" (B20) and "Cowhand" (B21) are in red and white packages. Through convenient design, the rectangular box can be set up for mass display, simply and quickly.

To complete the Buck'n Bronc Shootin' Iron getup, there are included the Buck'n Bronc Spurs and Belt Buckles, chrome finished or nickel-plated.

"We are ready to ship immediately to any point in the United States, since we have extra-ample warehouse facilities adjacent to our Los Angeles manufacturing plants," declared Norman Paisley, sales manager of the George Schmidt Manufacturing Company, which is located at 716 East 14th Street.

Gyro-Top Enjoys Large Sales

National sales of the Olympic Gyro-Top reached all-time high figures during 1953, according to Lou Cooper & Associates, 1206 Maple, Los Angeles.

The item is attractively packaged in cello bag or box for fast, self-selling action in all good toy departments. The Gyro-Top is all metal and attains high spinning speed. Product finish is in silver or gold

Transogram's Enlarged and Redecorated N. Y. Showroom

Charles S. Raizen, president of the Transogram Toy Company, announces that the company's headquarters at 200 Fifth Avenue, New York City, has been completely re-designed and enlarged to insure improved facilities for selling, and greater comfort for buyers in both surroundings and buying efficiency.

Showroom floor space has been doubled, while the area given over to offices has been increased by one-third. The showroom has been decorated in neutral colors to provide a more restful atmosphere. Walls are in white plastic with subtle grey plastic tops on the display tables. Green and grey tile is used on the floors. This new color scheme was evolved in order to allow for greater concentration on the product being displayed. In accordance with the "white envelope" plan created by architects Horace Ginsbern and Associates for the showroom, there is one wall for display, while the others are covered with walnut wallcases with pull-out shelves.

A new lighting arrangement allows members of the sales force to effectively control spotlights as required for each one's individual needs while selling. Bracket unit lighting that hooks onto wall knobs is supplemented by these spotlights set flush into the ceiling and focus on merchandise being offered.

Decorative dividers have been utilized to separate the reception room, the showroom and offices. The reception area itself is in walnut, with decorative grill work and a suspended birch ceiling. The showroom, reception room and offices are completely air-conditioned.

The new president is W. R. (Bob) Collette, son of the late Paul F. Collette, co-founder of the company. He is shown above shaking hands with John W. Shira, Sr., as the negotiations for the purchase of the Shira interests were successfully completed.

C. W. MacDowell, sales manager for the past eight years, has been elected secretary. He will continue as director of sales, in which capacity he will be a member of the new operating team of sales, advertising and production pictured above. George L. Reed, production manager; George L. Hampton, advertising and product development manager; and Mr. MacDowell. Mr. Reed has been with Oak for 21 years, while Mr. Hampton for the past eight years has been in charge of advertising and advertising balloon sales.

In addition to his new duties as president, Mr. Collette will continue as treasurer of the company. The former president, John W. Shira, Sr., a director of the Toy Manufacturers of the U. S. A., Inc., will be retained in the capacity of consultant.

The Oak Rubber Company was founded in 1916, and in addition to attaining its present established position in the toy balloon industry, has become well known as a manufacturer of other toys for children under the trade name "Squeeze-Me Toys." President W. R. Collette and his new management team have aggressive plans for the future, including the continuing development of new balloon and toy items and new ways to merchandise and promote them. Their latest achievement, soon to be announced, is an automatic balloon vending machine, that not only dispenses a packaged balloon, but actually blows it up.

QUEEN MOTHER ELIZABETH TAKES TOUR AT SCHWARZ

During the recent visit of England's Queen Mother Elizabeth to the United States, Her Majesty managed to take time out, despite the many functions tended in her honor, to make an extensive shopping tour of New York stores.

As might be expected, the last but not least of her visits was to world-famous F. A. O. Schwarz of Fifth Avenue. Her Majesty who was escorted throughout the store by President Phillip L. Kirkman appeared to enjoy every minute of her tour. The Queen Mother is said to have expressed an interest in items suitable for a six-year-old boy and a four-year-old girl and after testing a variety of toys purchased a steam shovel, a plastic tea set and a variety of other playthings.

Noticing a Selchow & Righter "Scrabble" set on one of the counters, she remarked "I am just learning to play this game" and promptly purchased a set. It is interesting to note that Selchow & Righter Company, manufacturers of "Scrabble," Parcheesi and other well-known games have been supplying F. A. O. Schwarz for the past 87 years.

Globe Miniature Railroad Kits Scale Models of Actual Trains

Among the newest developments in the toy and hobby trade is the Globe Line of authentic miniature railroad kits, a new series expected to find favor with sales among the millions of Americans who have seen or ridden a train. The easily-assembled plastic kits have been manufactured to retail for 98c and 89c.

First in the line are a Diesel locomotive and a Booster Unit, each intricately detailed for display on the mantle, in the playroom or den. The locomotive ("A" Unit) retails for 98c, the Booster Unit ("B") for 9c less.

The Diesels, which are being successfully pre-tested in key department and toy stores, are scale models of the locomotives found at the head of freight and passenger trains on the nation's numerous great railroads.

"The realism of the locomotives has appeal for Dad . . . as well as for the youngsters," spokesmen for the company emphasize. "Our test sales in department stores indicate that the Diesels will for this reason become a steady, year-around best seller."

The locomotives, which always are run in pairs and usually are run on real railroads in units of four, mark the toy industry debut of Irvin R. Athearn, for 10 years one of the top-selling manufacturers in the hobby field.

Mr. Athearn reports his advance sales are heavy in the hobby trade, where he is receiving his third and fourth round of re-orders on the new Globe line. Veteran model railroaders have written the first to say that even in the toy trains, the "Athearn touch"—meaning an inordinately high degree of realism—is evident, the manufacturer adds.

GIMBELS, PHILADELPHIA, USING JINGLE DINGLE-THEME WINDOWS

"Here comes Jingle Dingle, as cute as a Christmas toy." That's the key line of a Christmas song recorded by Julius LaRosa and Archie Bleyer's orchestra. It is also the key to the retailers' newest Christmas merchandise promotion, says Leon Jason, Jingles' creator and licensor.

Sparked by national TV and radio promotion of the Cadence record, Gimbel's Philadelphia will present the Jingle Dingle theme in a six window animated display for the holiday season. Special merchandise bearing the Jingle Dingle personality and his tinkling bells will be featured in the toy and kiddies' apparel departments.

Manufacturers already producing Jingle Dingle toy items are: Pressman Toys, an embroidery kit; Kestral Corporation, inflatable dolls; Ed-U-Cards Inc., sewing cards; Lowe Company, activity books; Harett-Gilmar Inc., ring toss game; E F. Fairchild Corporation, jigsaw puzzles; Zany Toys, hand puppets; Rushton Company, plastic dolls; Van Dam Company, balloons; Benay Albee Company, novelty hats; Peter Pan Company, story records, Karbon Kopee Company, Karbon Kit

"Our emphasis is on the use of Jingle Dingle as a symbol of good cheer on specially designed merchandise," says Mr Jason, creator and licensor of the character

CHANDLER NAMES NEW TEAM TO HEAD PLASTIC DIVISION

Holding to the idea that there should be perfect teamwork between sales and promotion, Chandler decided on these two top, experienced men, both of whom are widely experienced in the inflatable toy field

In commenting on his new affiliation, Mr Master stated as follows. "Chandler has behind it over 100 years of successful manufacturing experience and is well equipped to produce quality in quantity—and quickly. R. B. Sloane Company Offering Electrician Kits in Four Sizes

The Junior Electrician is a series of new electrical construction kits, designed to teach youngsters the whys and wherefores of ordinary everday electronics as applied at home and industry. The kit consists of miniature electrical apparatus such as electri bulbs, electric bells, buzzers, sockets, telegraph keys, switches push buttons electric motors, gear reduction boxes, wire and batteries. Each part is an exact, miniature working reproduction of the real thing, the manufacturer states.

For safety, the sole source of power is two standard "C" type flashlight batteries. Each kit is supplied with Burgess dry cells. In addition, a complete instrument manual, outlining various simple electrical circuits, is enclosed in each unit.

The Junior Electrician, made by R. B. Sloane & Company, Inc., 30 West 15 Street, New York City 11, is available in four sizes retailing at $2.50, $6.98, $7.98 and $10 respectively. Applications for design patents have been filed covering all models

"Although the Junior Electrician was introduced late in the season," states Max Tucker, sales manager at Sloane, "leading department store buyers were quick to recognize it as a novel construction kit and toy, and were equally quick in snapping up the balance of our production for '54. However, we're gearing up for a big year in 1955. The potential demand has been made evident."

A RECORD-BREAKING YEAR

The Golden Anniversary of the American Power Boat Association, supervisory body for motorboat racing in the United States, proved to be the biggest year in that organization's history with a record 286 inboard, outboard and stock outboard regattas—28 percent more than the banner year of 1952—sanctioned in 15 of the APBA's 16 regions.

Puerto Rico was designated as Region 13 at the end of the summer, but no sanctioned events have yet been held there.

In the 45 hydroplane and runabout classes recognized by the APBA there were an unprecedented 4,251 individual racing craft registered during the past year compared to 3,677 in 1952, a 15 percent increase. The largest growth occurred in the stock outboard classes where the registration rose from 1,997 in 1952 to 2,452 this year Other listings included: 791 inboards, 929 outboards and 79 modified stock outboards.

In winning the 46th running of the Gold Cup classic on Lake Washington, Seattle, Wash., the Grand Old Lady of unlimited hydroplane racing, the fabulous Slo-mo-shun IV, tied an all time mark, the second boat in history to win this premier motorboat-racing trophy three times. Stanley S. Sayres' big craft added this year's victory to wins in 1950 and 1952 to tie George Reis' El Lagarto for this honor. El Lagarto had held this mark since its victories in 1933, 1934 and 1935.

Consistently good driving in five unlimited hydro regattas paid off for Lee Schoenith of Detroit. With only one win, in the Silver Cup, young Schoenith at the wheel of his father's Gale II compiled enough points with seconds and thirds to win the U. S. Shield, emblematic of the high-point winner in an unlimited hydro class.

Sixty-four one-mile and five-mile competitive records were set and reset during the past year—more than ever before in APBA history. The fifth class in the inboard division to be driven more than 100 m.p.h. became the 135 cubic inch hydros when William Holloway, Oakland, Cal., hit an average of 100.620 m.p.h. for two runs through the one-mile trap at Seattle, August 10. In all there were 30 new inboard, 20 outboard and 14 stock outboard marks established.

The greatest increase in motorboat-racing interest came in the stock outboard division with 197 separate opportunities for these craft to compete, as against 131 the previous year—a 50 percent increase. The two-year rise in stock outboard competition is a phenomenal 143 percent.

The APBA's rejuvenated Cruiser Racing program proved successful under the guidance of the Cruiser Racing Commission chairman, William Edgar John, of Rye, N. Y. A total of six predicted log contests were sanctioned and several new trophies were placed in competition including the National Predicted Log Contest Trophy, the Frank Huckins Memorial Trophy, the Herbert L. Stone National Power Cruiser Championship Trophy, and The International Trophy, donated by the National Association of Engine and Boat Manufacturers.

Following is a tabular summary of major motor boat racing activities during 1953.

"Construct-A-Globe" Teaches Geography

The continents, rivers, oceans, islands, all the parts it takes to make a world are vividly impressed upon the minds of students in elementary and junior high schools, when they build their own globe. The new 10½ inch, three-color "Construct-A-Globe," manufactured by Models of Industry, Inc., Berkeley, California, is a 3-D lesson in global geography.

Not only do students read about the world and its wonders; they actually live the part in global exercises and games. It's a "learn-by-doing" method of grasping geography. Like the world traveler, students visit each country as they assemble the globe from flat segments. Like the foreign correspondent, they compare areas and distances throughout the world, with those which are familiar to them.

The "Construct-A-Globe" was developed by C. E. Erickson, a cartographer in Berkeley, California. Printed in three colors, it stands out as a colorful addition to a classroom when completed. The kit includes global segments pre-cut for easy assembly, base and axis rods for mounting, adhesive "locators" used for playing geographic games, a "comparator" for visual comparison of global surfaces, a scale for measuring global distances, both in miles and flying time, and a 26-page Handbook and Teachers' Manual.

Like its predecessors, The Oil Field, Theory of Flight, Weather and Electrical Kits, themselves developed by prominent educators, the "Construct-A-Globe" promises to be a boon to classroom teachers. For further information, write Models of Industry, Inc., 2100 5th Street, Berkeley, California.

It's a good sales argument—and you'll find it nearly always produces a sale!

are America's favorite games

Parcheesi was the first of the so-called "board games" in America. Introduced 87 years ago, it crossed the plains with the pioneers and has been played by old and young alike for four generations. Parcheesi is still one of the country's two most popular games.

Scrabble, as everyone knows, is the game sensation of all time that has taken America by storm. Almost overnight, it became a national craze and is getting more popular every day. Because the demand for Scrabble is so tremendous, many dealers still find it difficult to get enough to supply their customers. Just remember that we are doing all we can to supply your needs.

The twin V Drive engines, equipped with newly patented "Fairline Units" will assure speed and economy. The new Hackerform hull will make your voyages a joy. HACKER "BEAR CAT"

HACKER "BEAR-CAT" — The softest riding runabout ever produced. 23'x8'6" powered for speeds up to 40 m.p.h. plus. The Queen of Runabouts.

The above three boats represent only a fraction of what we can offer in new boats designed by John L. Hacker, N.A., whether custom or stock. Our planning department can offer you anything from 19' outboard cruisers, and small runabouts, to the largest luxurious motor yachts. Or if you desire, we can offer regular speedboats like the Hacker designed "My Sweetie". Remember, for comfort or speed get a Hacker designed custom built boat through International Yacht Sales.

NEW AUXILIARIES

← INTERNATIONAL 25

The small auxiliary to the left is our answer to a crying need for a small and low cost sailboat that has four separate berths, inboard power, galley and toilet. She has the following measurements: 25'3" x 20'6" x 7'4" x 4'8", giving her harmonious and seaworthy lines. The headroom is 5'2" and the total measured sail area is 310 square feet. At the low cost of $5,500 she will be delivered U.S.A. East Coast with mainsail, jib, genoa and spinnaker in addition to other equipment. The specifications call for mahogany planking, fastened with copper and galvanized rivets to oak and steel frames. Deck canvas covered and rigging stainless. All in all the biggest little boat there is. For complete data, write International Yacht Sales, Detroit.

THE "HUSKY"

This 15½-foot really husky built outboard boat can take a lot of beating and a lot of rough water. Built in Norway of hard Norway Pine Planking, she has sturdy oak frames and is copper riveted. The trim is nil. Her lines are beautiful, her appearance plain, but she is a boat—every inch of her. For early Spring delivery order now. $440.00 Detroit.

"Howdy Doody" Make-It-Yourself Hat

The Connecticut Leather Company, 75 Windsor St., Hartford, Conn., has been licensed for the production and sale of its "Howdy Doody" Make-it-Yourself Bee-Nee Kit, according to a recent announcement from Alan Stone, vice president in charge of merchandising for the Kagran Corp.

This child's hat is receiving the promotional advantages of daily appearances on the "Howdy Doody" show beginning this month, and appearing every day thereafter. The entire "Peanut Gallery" will be wearing, throughout the show, hand-laced "Bee-Nees" presented to the children by the Connecticut Leather Co. "Howdy Doody," which appears on NBC-TV Monday through Friday, has an estimated audience of 15 million.

The key feature of the No. 1469 Bee-Nee, retailing at 69 cents is the fact that the children will create their own hats from these "make-it-yourself" kits, appealing to the growing consumer demand for educational construction toys. Simplified lacing and well illustrated instructions make it possible for even the younger 'Howdy Doody' followers to create their own official Bee Nees.

The hat is cut from genuine leather in multi-color combinations. Each Bee-Nee is packaged in a three-color box, and as a sales aid, two dozen are packaged in a self-service counter display unit.

The firm's sales representatives include: Colman and Herschmann, New York City, for the East; J. B. Seckler Associates, New York City, for the chains; Walter and Arthur Kramer, Chicago, Ill., for the Mid-West, and Fred McDonald, Los Angeles, Calif., for the West Coast.

in tribute to the boatmen of America who appreciate the finest of seagoing yachts

Hubert Johnson presents

a complete new line of boats for 1954 employing the sensational Johnson Sea Skiff hulls* and finer in every way than anything hitherto produced in boats of this type . . .

- 42′ Double-Cabin Sportfisherman
- 37′ Sportfishing Cruiser
- 35′ Express Cruiser
- 33′ Sportfisherman
- 33′ Sedan Skiff

- 30′ Seaballer
- 28′ Shelter Skiff
- 26′ Sport Skiff
- 24′ Sportsman

All except 24′ Sportsman are twin-screw; single screw optional on 26′ and 28′ models.

*Known as the "World's Finest Pleasure-Boat Hull," built entirely of clear Philippine mahogany lap-strake planked over steam-bent frames spaced less than 6″ apart and composed of one piece of clear white oak extending from gunwale to gunwale without joints. Fastened entirely by copper rivets and Everdur bronze screws, Johnson skiff hulls have greater strength per pound and need no caulking. Development of the skiff-type hull by Hubert Johnson has made this the most popular type of true sea boat on the East Coast. The hull has an extremely easy entrance and functions efficiently as a displacement boat, but is, at the same time, a brilliant performer, getting well up on the surface at moderate engine speeds. With its generous keel, the Johnson skiff runs dries, rounds less and is more responsive than any other boat of comparable size.

In a keynote speech, Rocky advised the youngsters that "safety was the best policy" and that Bakersfield was a model community, with its top safety record.

TRANSOGRAM BEGINS AGGRESSIVE CONSUMER ADVERTISING CAMPAIGN

Transogram Company, a leading manufacturer of toys and games, has launched the largest advertising and promotional campaign in its history, using national consumer magazines, television and radio. The program, which starts in November, has been carefully planned and timed to accelerate the year's normal advertising pace just at the peak of toy interest

Full-page, four-color ads are scheduled to appear in the November and December Parents' Magazine to reach over a million and a half American families, and also in the November 28th American Weekly to reach nine and a half million families located in 27 different cities. In addition to these four-color displays, space has been taken in such media as Saturday Evening Post, Collier's, Look, Better Homes, Woman's Home Companion, Ladies' Home Journal, McCall's, Good Housekeeping and Child Life. This powerful coverage will be in addition to the five Transogram color ads to be featured in the November 22nd Life Magazine toy promotion issue.

Besides strong participation in the Toy Guidance Council television program, several coast-to-coast television tie-ins are scheduled for November and December including a 62-station hook-up on CBS "Morning Show" and "Panorama Pacific, and NBC's 42-station "Home Show." Supplementing these will be various tie-ins on popular radio programs.

Behind this aggressive advertising and promotional drive is one aim only, states Transogram's president, Charles S. Raizen: To bring customers—thousands of customers—to toy counters carrying Transogram Toys and Games. Total reader-impressions of the scheduled magazines alone are estimated at over 150,000,000. TV and Radio listener-impressions should also add up into the millions according to Lester Harrison, Inc., agency handling the campaign.

Knickerbocker Plastic Expands Easter Line

Sister Rabbit

KNICKERBOCKER Plastic Company, North Hollywood, Cal., already manufacturers of one of the largest lines of plastic Easter toys in existence, are adding a number of items for Easter, 1955. According to Ernest Kling, vice-president and controller at Knickerbocker Plastic, the Easter line will consist of 46 items, five of which are new.

Added to the line are a Sister Rabbit, a Petite Father Rabbit and a Petite Sister Rabbit. These three are smaller plastic models of the extremely successful Father and Sister Rabbit banks and rattles marketed previously.

Also added is a new plastic bank called the Rooster Bank, a faithful copy of an original high-quality ceramic table decoration made in Italy. The Rooster Bank can not only be used as a child's savings bank, but also can do double duty as a decoration or table centerpiece in any home

Another addition to the Easter line is an animated Running Bunny. Moulded of soft polyethylene plastic, it can be made to scamper across the floor by the operation of a string and lead weight flywheel operated by a rubber band.

The popular Father and Mother Rabbit banks, approximately half a million of which were sold during the 1954 Easter season, and which have previously carried a retail price of $1 will now be available at a suggested retail of 89c. The Quacking Duck Pull Toy, introduced last year, is now carrying a suggested retail price of $1.49. This appealing pull toy, 5½" high and 10" long, consists of a mother duck and two ducklings riding in a brightly colored automobile. The mother duck flaps her wings and quacks as the pull toy operates.

Both Mr Kling and Sanford Glick, vice-president and general manager of Knickerbocker Plastic, point out that the company is responding to the call for making all large items of high impact plastic wherever this is possible. All of the plastic banks and the Quacking Duck Pull Toy, because of the use of high impact plastic, are practically unbreakable, the Knickerbocker executives assert.

Mr. Glick added that Knickerbocker is converting to automatic moulding which will add to the already high quality of its product.

The Knickerbocker Easter line of transparent plastic eggs, which were so successful last Easter, this year will have additional eye appeal. The eggs will be tinted pink or blue. Extremely careful painting and the lavish use of color have always been a feature of the Knickerbocker Easter line.

It is of considerable interest that the Knickerbocker Plastic toys have always been so popular and durable that their original toy, the Skipper Duck, is still selling in large volume. During the 1954 season, it is stated, over a quarter of a million of this one original item were sold.

Last Easter, Knickerbocker Plastic Company offered a special Easter package for retailers. This was their item #99, consisting of 126 pieces with a total retail value of $30.04. The individual retail value of the pieces ranged from 10c to $1. The assortment was put together after considerable research, the proportion of individual pieces varying according to the popularity of the items. Retailers, it is reported, were so pleased with this assortment that the offer is being made again this year Several new items are being included

Knickerbocker Plastic is making an additional offer of another Easter assortment (their item #100). This consists of a package of 72 pieces with a total retail value of $7.24. These are all 10c items selected from their most popular group at this price.

Ungar's Advertising Campaign

Ungar Electric Tools, Inc., oldest West Coast toy manufacturer, has announced a uniquely enterprising ad campaign to appear in Parents magazine—with copy scheduled not only for November and December, but also for January, after the season's close.

Sidney D. Ungar, president of the firm, with plant and offices at 4101 Redwood Avenue, in the Venice Industrial Tract adjoining Los Angeles, said that his company's bold post-seasonal advertising and promotional campaign was dictated by the increasingly year-round character of the growing market for its nationally-known Ungar woodburning pencil and other toy and hobby products.

A by-product of the forthcoming campaign, he explained, is the award to Ungar Electric Tools, Inc., of the coveted Parents magazine Commendation Seal.

It was indicated that other consumer publications are being studied for use in the campaign, which also will be stimulated by point-of-purchase displays, dealer and retailer tie-ins on local levels, and other special merchandising promotions.

From its original limited use as a wood-burning toy for marking picture placques, the Ungar pencil, in many adaptations, has been developed for highly diversified utility in literally hundreds of areas outside the toy, hobby and routine industrial fields.

Philadelphia Do-It-Yourself Show Scheduled

• A large Do-It-Yourself Show was scheduled to be held in Philadelphia, Pa., November 1 to 6. The Culver Mfg. Co., Inc., Erin, Tenn., advises that it cooperated with a group of Philadelphia and eastern Pennsylvania hobby dealers, through their association, in helping them to present U-Mak-A-Moc and U-Ma-Kit (moccasins) at the show. It was anticipated that about 100,000 people would attend, and many came from areas far removed from Philadelphia. This was an excellent opportunity for the manufacturers of hobby and craft items generally.

TOPIC TOYS' KATCHETT MODELED ON JAI-ALAI

Topic Toys, 420 North Orleans Street, Chicago will premiere their latest new action toy, Katchett, in Room 628, Hotel New Yorker, during the Toy Fair

Adapted from Jai-Alai, internationally known Latin-American sport, Katchett was designed for American play tastes by the former Jai-Alai champion, Armando Ferrer. Thoroughly tested among all age groups, adults as well as children and teen-agers, the toy's fast, challenging action has reportedly met with enthusiastic acceptance. On the basis of the tests, Topic has geared production to top capacity and will back the item with strong promotion. Company officials Dave Trager and Cy Nelson state they expect Katchett to achieve a sales record fully as enviable as those set by Topic's Merry-Go-Slip, Moody Mutt, Busy Biddy and other Topic releases

Katchett play is said to be as easy as bouncing a ball and can be learned in a few seconds. Children have gained a passable degree of skill after short practice, Mr. Trager reports. Consisting of a frame and fabric basket patterned after the Jai-Alai "cesta," together with a rubber ball on a long rubber string, Katchett is ideal for play indoors or out. It may be played with a captive or free ball by individuals or by groups in competitive play similar to handball, tennis and the like Katchett is colorfully sleeve-packaged to permit full display value The attractive instruction folder also tells the story of Jai Alai Retail price for Katchett is pegged at a popular 98.

New Angle in Hobby Tools— X-Acto's New Razor Saw Set

The latest addition to the X-acto line of hobby tools is a new Razor Saw Set—two razor saw blades (1 ¾" and 1" widths plus a #5 X-acto universal handle—to retail for $1.75

The razor saw represents an important new development in the hobby and home workshop field It has proven itself a most useful cutting tool for fine and accurate cross-cutting, trimming, and notching of metals, wood, and plastics; its narrow blade and fine teeth also reduce material wastage to a minimum.

A novel and practical feature of the X-acto razer saw is the angle at which the blade is joined to the handle permitting closer work in corners, providing longer tool reach (over-all length of 9¾") and preventing the barking of knuckles so common in work with the usual straight back saws.

The new razor saw set incorporates the economical and convenient X-acto principle of replaceable blades, the #5 handle accommodates a total of 21 styles of X-acto blades, routers, gouges, and punches in addition to the razor saw blades.

Refill blades are available separately for replacement at 40c each for the ¾" width and 45c each for the 1" width

The METAL WARE Corporation

Coming back into the administrative offices of the firm, we were shown a few of the original toys manufactured by Hubley, including the heavy, cast-iron circus wagons, old-fashioned toy coal ranges, mechanical banks, and still later one of the early airplanes and motor bicycles. Mr Breneman mentioned here that Hubley has been offered large sums for these toys, since they are now all collectors' items. He also told us that the reason why the firm stopped making the cast-iron toys was because of the cost of production, and the enormous cost of handling and shipping (the weight was the big factor here).

Went Into War Work

The only hiatus in the firm's long and respected history of toymaking came during the second World War, when it went into war work and turned out more than 5,000 000 M-74 bomb fuses which the Hubley engineers played a large part in developing. In addition, the company also produced other items essential to the war effort.

As we sat and rested our feet after the tour, Mr. Kilgour outlined the sales organization for us. He said that it consists of a New York office, and showrooms in Boston, Seattle, San Francisco, and Los Angeles. The distribution is based upon the price range, which provides the firm with distribution through many channels, which in turn yields the volume required for the size of the business. Hubley not only sells through the jobber trade throughout the United States, as well as outside the continental limits of the country, but also through all of the major and minor chains, department stores, hardware firms, automotive chains, etc. They also have a growing export business, which is handled through a large export firm in New York.

Two final points made by Mr Breneman were that Hubley only brings out new items at the annual Toy Fair in New York, and not at any other time of the year, and that it prides itself on its outstanding catalog. The catalog is really two—one for the toys and the other for the guns and pistols. They are both printed on fine paper and are enhanced by excellent art work and color.

Though it is an old firm as far as the toy field is concerned Hubley is also one of the most progressive. It is a respected and contributing member of its community, and looks to the future with confidence built on steady expansion consistent with sales and production

MILTON BERLE'S TV SECRETARY, "MAX-ine." Roberta Doll Co., Inc., announces the selection of a walking doll by the Milton Berle TV show. It was designed, and is made exclusively, by the Roberta Doll Co.

This lovable cutie is now being shown to the trade, and its success is assured by orders being booked.

"Max" is available in 14, 16, 19 and 22-inch sizes; her entire wardrobe has been styled by Maxine herself, and is a facsimile of her TV appearance.

Outstanding accessories furnished with each doll consist of stenographic book and pencil, and two hair ribbon bows with comb attached, that can be used for the child itself, or for the doll.

Pictured above is a window display of Hoseley Party Dolls, introduced to the market very recently by Mrs. Searl Hoseley of McGregor, Iowa. The dolls, dressed in party formals of 56 different styles, were shown at Iowa State Gift Show and Merchandise Fair in Hotel Fort Des Moines for first time. Gown styles are all different; some are of Mrs. Hoseley's design and some are copies of grown-up models. Each sample doll has a name. Names were picked by fourth grade school girls at the request of the manufacturer. The dolls are 15 inches tall and are equipped to stand. There are blondes, brunettes and red heads, with hair styled according to type of gown. Arms and heads are movable. Dolls have always been a hobby with Mrs. Hoseley, and they grew into a business when she began making the Ruth Hoseley dolls for friends. One day a salesman saw some of her bridal dolls in a fashion shop and took several samples with him, and the wholesaling of Hoseley Party Dolls resulted.

Indiana Hobby and Gift Show

Last year, 65,000 people with money to spend visited the Indiana Hobby and Gift Show, sponsored by the Indianapolis Star and conducted by Hobby Show, Inc., P. O. Box 6089, Indianapolis 20, Ind.

It is reported that the average income per family in the Indianapolis market is $6,593, which is above the national average, and that is why, perhaps, this show is so successful. The show features hobby, gift and "do-it-yourself" merchandise, and will be held in the Manufacturers' Building, Indiana State Fairgrounds, November 13-21, 1954. There will be 82,200 square feet of floor space and plenty of free parking. The building will be completely decorated. 93 per cent of last year's exhibitors have renewed for 1954.

New Hobby Store to Sell Toys

• Lyn-Ayr is the name of a new hobby and toy store, opened August 1 at 215 S. Los Angeles St., Anaheim, Calif. It will carry models, handicrafts, gifts and games, in addition to toys. Owner is G. D. Gruber. The store will be closed Mondays, but will be open from noon to 9:00 p.m. on all other days, including Sundays.

• The All-Nation Hobby Shop, 182 N. LaSalle St., Chicago 1, is showing a very attractive diesel in "O" gauge, known as the EMD F-7 Dual Road Diesel, built from real railroad blueprints, engineered for realism, fully detailed new castings, and new drawings and instructions. The engine has two units.

• It is reported that Len Fox, former publisher of Model & Hobby Industry, after selling his publishing business recently, is now a factory representative, handling hobbies and crafts in the New York-New England territory.

Earning profits — satisfied customers. What! on a toy counter? CERTAINLY — READ THIS.

You and I know that only modern engines built for modern merchandising is the key.

Thimble-Drome

1. Thimble-Drome engines are the only ones not built that the average inexperienced boy can start quickly and easily even when they are new.
2. They are mass produced for price
3. Built to such close tolerances that each and every one starts and runs uniformly well.
4. Finished so smoothly they need no break-in running
5. Fitted so perfectly they last much longer
6. And they have more than normal power.

All engine manufacturers boast. Only the L. M. Cox Mfg. Co., Inc., can deliver the 6 listed requirements for successful hobby-toys.

New Paints for Model Railroads

MODEL railroad paints precisely engineered for every miniature railroad need are the latest product news from the expanding Pactra Chemical Co., according to an announcement by president Al Davenport.

"In order to help reduce shelf inventories of jobbers and dealers, and still give customers plenty of paint, Pactra's new High Ball Railroad Paint is packaged in a handy eight-bottle kit, as well as in larger individual jars, and in the popular new spray cans," he explains.

Success of the Pactra 69-cent and 98-cent 'Namel Color Kits of paints for plastics convinced Davenport that the majority of hobbyists prefer a complete set of colors in one unit, to buying single jars. Another advantage, Davenport points out, is that the small bottles hold just the right amount of color for "touch-ups," which is usually all the railroad hobbyist requires. Train kits are almost always small and prepainted. The fast-drying, flat finish paint, neither a lacquer nor a vinyl, has a plastic base formula, guaranteeing perfect adhesion to metal or wood, yet never obscuring detail. Authentic railroad colors in the High Ball kit are tuscan red, boxcar red, caboose red, reefer yellow, reefer orange, engine black (double portion) and thinner cleaner. A good quality brush, and instructions for expert one-coat application are included with the kit, which retails at 89 cents.

The bright yellow, red, green and blue self-display carton is patterned after the 'Namel car-

. . . the racy, rugged

new Model MT Sports Car Kit!

Here's the finest, most completely different kit model ever produced. It's rugged, realistic and styled after the famous MG sports car—packed with customer appeal and profit potential.

Chrome-plate trim. Body finished in prime coat, permitting kit builders to apply own color schemes. Length, 15"; weight, 5 lbs. Price, $10.95. ($11.75 in 11 Western States).

Unlike cheaper, flimsily constructed kits, the Model "MT" is more than just something to look at. With over 50 precision-fitted parts, including semi elliptical rear springs, it's an absorbing "father-and-son" project, requiring only a screw-driver for assembly. And when put together, it's a fascinating push-pull toy with steerable front wheels—a toy that would cost much more if factory assembled.

The Model "MT" has wider sales scope than any other kit model ever devised. In addition to its "boy-and-dad" appeal, it's a "natural" for sports car lovers and hobbyists—an irresistible challenge to power enthusiasts—a unique collector's item.

SUPERB STRUCTURAL QUALITY!

The Model "MT" is built to the same high standards of world-famous Model Toys. Body is durable die cast construction, chassis is heavy gauge steel. All parts are metal, except the seats and real rubber tires.

The "MT" Will Be Featured In Model Toys National Advertising, and will be in great demand.

PACKAGED FOR DISPLAY!

Colorful, self-merchandising box displays all parts—attracts shoppers, stimulates impulse buying. Packed 6 to the carton. Shipping weight, 36 lbs.

BE SURE TO SEE IT AT THE TOY FAIR!

Near Gillette you meet Seward Sharp, a wheat farmer. He doesn't need help, but he tells you how he and three other boys took a similar trip back in the 30's when jobs were really scarce. But even then, Sharp tells you, he saw the country and made expenses and little more.

You move on into South Dakota, and your luck picks up. Two days of shocking oats nets you $17.50 apiece, stiff backs, and blistered fingers.

In eastern South Dakota, you suddenly run out of the dry land into green. Boy! It feels good when you run past several pretty lakes.

But as you move into Minnesota, it starts to rain—so no work. Wisconsin—again too much rain.

You pause in Chicago to see the Stockyards and the meat-packing plants. You also visit some of the great museums, and drive "Old Faithful" proudly up swanky Lake Shore Drive.

But enough of Chicago—the urge is strong now to get back home. You add up the money in your pockets, and match it against the miles back to New York state. You're okay.

So you roll along through the warm, sunny Indiana farmlands, into the gentle hills of Ohio. Before you know it you run into the sharper hills and valleys of New York state—and it begins to feel like home.

You chug into the yard in late afternoon, and the folks come streaming out to greet you.

"How did you like it?" "Is California as good as they say it is?" "Which part of the country did you like best?"

After you're home awhile, you begin to look back over your summer. You realize that you've collected a fine set of memories—that you really did see America at its best, and it didn't cost much, either.

A little more work at the right time, or a little shorter route, and you could have even made a little money.

As it was, you covered more than 8,500 miles in about eight weeks, and you spent only about two weeks in actual working.

Everywhere you went, people were friendly and good to you. Farm folks, County Agents, gas station men, employment office people—they all seemed interested in your trip, and tried to help you get work whenever you needed it.

Then you find that you've become a local authority on travel. So you tell the fellows to go ahead and try it.

You warn them to earn enough money each time to take them on to the next place they expect work, suggest that they take lots of pictures, and then wish them luck!

the new program a chance and see how it works." They were also heartened by the Secretary's surprise announcement that an advisory conservation commission to the administration is in the wind.

This was such a surprise that even top-level USDA officials back in Washington were wondering just what the Secretary had said in New Orleans.

Gas Piped Right to Farms

A rural natural-gas pipe-line network is going up in an 80- by 40 mile area in central Nebraska.

Farmers, business men, and a gas company, are behind it. To hold down costs, crewmen are laying the small (mostly two-inch) pipe on top of the ground along fence rows; only at crossings do they bury it.

Farmers will use the natural gas to run their irrigation pump engines. They'll save about $400 a season, and fuel will be so cheap that almost all will want to irrigate. They'll also get gas for stoves, automatic furnaces, crop dryers, tank and water heaters, brooders, and clothes dryers.

Business men and families in communities too small to justify a pipe-line plan to tap into the farm lines. With irrigation, they hope to see an end of the slump that sets in when drought hits. Irrigation also means more intensive farming—smaller farms with more families in the trading area.

This also promises a summer market for the Kansas-Nebraska Natural Gas Co. of Hastings. A pump engine chugging away on every quarter-section will take up some of the summer slack. The 171 towns along the company's 3,400 miles of line average less than 1,000 population, and gas sales usually limp along at about half their winter volume.

To bring in the natural gas, more than 40 districts are organizing. Farmers buy shares in the district, and agree to furnish the right of way.

Total line costs are running from about $2,000 in the smallest district to more than $40,000 in one big district. Shares vary, but most run between $1,100 and $1,300. Farmers who plan to irrigate buy a full share, while families who just want the gas for domestic use pay for one-third of a share.

Fuel savings will pay off the cost of the shares in from two to four years, estimates the Company's division superintendent, A. J. Sigel.

TAKE THE GAMBLE OUT OF HAYMAKING

The John Bean Haymaker can cut your field drying time in half. On good days, you can make hay in one day. The Haymaker cuts a 7-foot swath and then crushes the stems to speed curing time without losing the nutritious juices. Many Haymaker users get an extra cutting by curing nutritious early cut hay in a hurry. Tests by agricultural authorities have proved that cattle thrive on Haymaker hay — gain more weight and produce more milk.

OPINION

The Slump Fails

THE first six months of 1954 went by without great hurt to the vast majority of Americans, according to Philip Hampson in the Chicago Tribune. The banks' demand deposits, which include individuals' savings, total almost $100 billion.

At the opening of the year, he said, probably the most widely discussed topic was, "Will there be a recession or a depression or something of the sort?" Well, the days passed and business moved along at a satisfactory level, which, however, was not as high as in the record months of 1953.

As the second half of the year opened, economic signs indicated that business should continue good. Among the favorable factors for the immediate future are the continued gains in savings; the record rate of residential construction and the continued high rate of industrial and business building; improvement in the inventory situation; continued high levels of retail purchases. Farm income continues good.

Among the unfavorable factors are the confiscatory taxes imposed on individuals and business; the unrest abroad; and over-production of some items.

Tariff Cuts

CONGRESS has extended the President's authority to enter into new trade agreements until June 12, 1955. This will set in formal motion U. S. plans to negotiate multilateral tariff reductions with Japan and other countries under the General Agreements on Tariffs and Trade.

While the President's authority to enter into new tariff-cutting arrangements has been extended another year, new U. S. duty cuts thereunder cannot go beyond 50 per cent of the rates in effect on January 1, 1945.

Before any U. S.-Japanese tariff talks can be started, however, certain time-consuming preliminaries are required by law. The Tariff Commission is required to conduct a peril point investigation on a Presidential bargaining list of U. S. commodities slated for possible U. S. cuts or bindings. The Commission must report to the President, within a 120-day period, the rates below which serious injury might result to U. S. domestic producers of

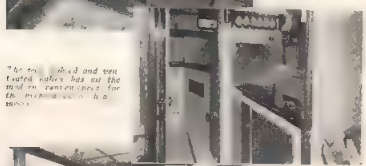
NASSAU SPORT CRUISER ★

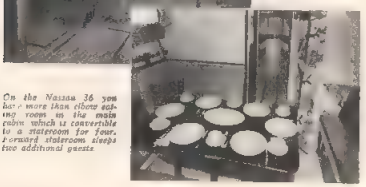
Never will you command a Finer Ship

Here is the highly efficient fly bridge of the Nassau 36 [illegible] sleek type where Marmac controls for twin engines, search light, instrument panels, binnacle, etc.



The [illegible] and you [illegible] cabin has all the modern conveniences for the [illegible] to a room.

The [illegible] bridge deck which may be fully enclosed has a dual control station helmsman seat and [illegible] dinette.



On the Nassau 36 you have more than ample eating room in the main cabin which is convertible to a stateroom for four. Forward stateroom sleeps two additional guests.

You can probably own a more expensive and larger cruiser than this Nassau 36, but we doubt whether you'll have a finer boat, measured in terms of sea-ability, performance, maneuverability, quality of materials or standard of craftsmanship. Here at Nassau we design and build boats with that extra plus which buyers don't usually look for unless they are expert builders or naval architects. These plus values make themselves quickly known when you become skipper of your own Nassau Cruiser and match it with any other boat of comparable size in any port. Everywhere you cruise you will see eyebrows raised in recognition of the faultless performance of your Nassau, whether it's the Nassau 33 or 36-foot Express, Sedan or Sport Fisherman Model or the 42-foot Sport Cruiser.

When in New York for the Boat Show, why not visit our plant and see the quality we build into our boats, or write us today for further information.

WITH THE WINDJAMMERS

to allow the Lightnings and Snipes to crowd them out of the winter sailing limelight. The Comet Class Y.R.A. has set February 21-23 as the dates for the annual Mid-Winter Championship series and has stepped up the number of races to five from three. The Coconut Grove Sailing Club will sponsor the regatta. In addition to this fixture, Comets will accept invitations to compete in the Biscayne Bay Y.C. meeting February 27-28 and the Miami Y.C. regatta March 6-7.

The Canadian Yachting Association is looking forward with more than usual pleasure to next summer's racing since R. C. Stevenson, of Montreal, honorary president of the C.Y.A. received word that the British royal yacht would race in some of its events in 1954.

The C.Y.A. invited Queen Elizabeth II and the Duke of Edinburgh to enter their Dragon Class sloop Bluebottle in regattas at Montreal and Toronto, homes of two royal chartered yacht clubs. Her Majesty and her consort accepted and the yacht, which was a wedding present from the members of the Island Sailing Club at Cowes, is scheduled to try her speed on Lake St. Louis and Lake Ontario.

Middies Do Well Afloat

Navy may not be able to beat Army at football, but the Naval Academy dinghy sailors are pretty hot stuff with tiller, sheet and centerboard. The Midshipmen celebrated mid-November on the Severn by trimming ten other entrants in its annual Fall invitation regatta. The soon-to-be naval officers rolled up 138 points, nine more than the better of the two crews entered by George Washington. Princeton was third with 126, M.I.T. had 124 and the second G.W.U. boat scored 105. Then came Catholic U., 102; Cornell, 101; Brown, 98; U. S. Merchant Marine Academy, 92; Webb Institute, 87; Drexel, 86; Syracuse, 61.

The big Mid-Western college dinghy event, the seventh annual Mark Timme Angsten Memorial sailed at Belmont Harbor, Chicago, was dominated by two Eastern guests, George Washington and Harvard. The Colonials built up a big lead early in the 24-race series and the Cambridgians came on strongly toward the close.

A bit of bad racing luck in the very last race prevented Harvard from taking the prize. Jim Nathanson, Harvard's No. 1 skipper, had won the final race in the first division and moved his team up to within a point of George Washington. Then the second division started and it was up to Nathanson's teammate, Tim Brown. In a jam at one of the marks, Brown's boat hit the buoy so that was that.

George Washington's winning total was 205, Harvard had 197 for second and the University of Michigan, the best of the Mid-Western contenders, was third with 193.

Beetle Cats Looking Ahead

The New England Beetle Cat Boat Association, reviewing its 1953 campaign and looking ahead to 1954, has reason to feel very good about both past and future. The addition of the Point Independence Y.C. at Onset, Mass., and the Tahanto Y.C. at Pocasset, Mass., raised the association's membership to 23 clubs and there will be at least one addition next year when the newly established fleet at Wild Harbor Y.C., New Silver Beach, Mass., brings its 20 boats into the fold.

By adding a women's championship to the schedule last summer, the association increased its major inter-club events to three. As an experiment, Duxbury conducted a title series for distaff skippers. It was a complete success. Twelve crews entered and the prize went to a Bass River mother-and-daughter combination, Mrs. Frederick W. Horner and Miss Joan Sturgis.

The junior championship was terrific. Nineteen crews competed in three days of racing at Bass River on the Cape and the sailing was so keen that two crews tied for first surements. Mrs. Gladys Conners is in charge. It is her responsibility to train those under her in addressing and careful packing. Mr. Kemp transfers copies of the orders to her, together with the days. She streamlines the process for prompt shipment to keep costs at a minimum. Gift wrapping service is given when requested.

Mr. Kemp affirms that he is still testing. Varying promotions are used with the results carefully evaluated from the viewpoint of appeal to the mail order and/or telephone order customer. Should the seasonal item be promoted over basic stocks? The impulse type of toy has proven to have a less outstanding appeal than basic items.

Though Joslin's is an independent, it is a four department store operation covering Denver and suburbs. Its progressive attitude in mail order solicitations is raising its gross and its merchandising position in the Great Denver Area.

individual orders larger. Put bicycle accessories next to the bikes, for example. Shovels and buckets belong with sand boxes.

Don't make them squint or stoop. Eye-level displays are the easiest to see. What's out of the eye's natural path won't sell.

Do use a lot of light. The utility bill is a minor place to realize savings.

Don't build hazards that can jut out in the customer's way. Anything that conflicts with a smooth traffic flow retards sales.

tells us something about every customer and helps us to show a personal interest in his hobby and achievements. For example, when a high school student enters, I can quickly locate his card in the file, note that he has entered several models in a school contest and ask him how he is coming along with the work. This sort of personal interest carries a lot of weight with all customers, particularly teen-agers, and the system has helped to make us many friends.

New Toys on Parade

"Cuddle Bear" Bath Toy

A new item from ROBERT H. CLARK CO., 9330 Santa Monica Blvd., Beverly Hills, Calif., is expected to be successful in toy, cosmetic, and baby departments.

Cuddle Bear is blue, of soft plastic, and has chubby little features and a big wide grin. He contains eight ounces of concentrated bubble bath powder. Cuddle Bear is unbreakable and shatter-proof, and floats when empty, making a clever bath time toy.

Each Cuddle Bear retails for $1; 36 are packed to a carton.

"Lullaby-Lite" and "Music Mill"

Molded of pink and blue lucent styrene, this new product of DESIGN ASSOCIATES, 210 Fifth Ave., New York City, may be hung on a nursery wall or above a crib to send baby off to dreamland with a lullaby.

Lullaby-Lite is decorated with a gay colored Dutch girl and boy, and contains precision-made genuine Swiss music movement with clear tone, and a positive non-overwind mechanism, according to the company. It is supplied with a 6-foot cord and 7-watt bulb to light the nursery with a soft glow.

A pull of the cord starts the melody, and the arms of the mill revolve as the music plays. Packaged in a two-tone gift box, the 7½" high Lullaby-Lite retails for about $5.49.

Suggested retail price for the Lullaby Music Mill, the same item without the light, is $4.98.

"Sitting" Inflatable

Featured in the 1954 summer line of PLASTIC INNOVATIONS INC., 185 Riverdale Ave., Yonkers, N. Y., is a 21" tall sitting toy, with bow tie and bell attached. The toy sits easily because of pliable frame supports in its legs.

New Toys on Parade

"Cuddle Bear" Bath Toy

A new item from ROBERT H. CLARK CO., 9330 Santa Monica Blvd., Beverly Hills, Calif., is expected to be successful in toy, cosmetic, and baby departments.

Cuddle Bear is blue, of soft plastic, and has chubby little features and a big wide grin. He contains eight ounces of concentrated bubble bath powder. Cuddle Bear is unbreakable and shatter-proof, and floats when empty, making a clever bath time toy.

Each Cuddle Bear retails for $1; 36 are packed to a carton.

"Lullaby-Lite" and "Music Mill"

Molded of pink and blue lucent styrene, this new product of DESIGN ASSOCIATES, 210 Fifth Ave., New York City, may be hung on a nursery wall or above a crib to send baby off to dreamland with a lullaby.

Lullaby-Lite is decorated with a gay colored Dutch girl and boy, and contains precision-made genuine Swiss music movement with clear tone, and a positive non-overwind mechanism, according to the company. It is supplied with a 6-foot cord and 7-watt bulb to light the nursery with a soft glow.

A pull of the cord starts the melody, and the arms of the mill revolve as the music plays. Packaged in a two-tone gift box, the 7½" high Lullaby-Lite retails for about $5.49.

Suggested retail price for the Lullaby Music Mill, the same item without the light, is $4.98.

Stallion .38 Cap Pistol

The Stallion .38 cap pistol of NICHOLS INDUSTRIES, Pasadena, Texas, was intro-duced to the toy trade at the March 1954 Toy Fair. It is modeled after its big brother, the Stallion .45, to combine a popular low price with authentic cartridge loading de-sign. Slightly smaller than the .45, it has an imitation black bone handle and is chromium plated. Working mechanism is engineered to give maximum life and dura-bility. Cartridge loading design makes a real six shooter out of the toy. Six little cartridges may be inserted into the revolv-ing cylinder and a cap may be inserted in each cartridge so that when fired, smoke comes out of the barrel.

George TRACTOR

TRACTOR POWER-UNIT. For summer mowing, winter shoveling, spring gardening or almost any kind of work with the ground, this is the key to economical, easy-and-efficient dispatch. It will till the soil; it will become a self-propelled wheel barrow. Use it to push harrow blades; make it a furrow plow. It scrapes away the most solidly frozen snow and ice. It mows the lawn and makes short work of any kind of undergrowth or weeds . . . becomes the power behind a sickle mower, reel mower, rotary mower, or cultivator-weeder, as the job dictates. No bolts or wrenches are necessary to perform any of these transformations—all attachments are listed on this page and attach to the tractor in less than 30-seconds!

2-HP. Clinton Engine. Husky, 4-cycle engine has recoil starter, no-shock stop button. Gas tank operates 2 hours between fillings. Handle-controlled throttle governs speed to fit job and comfort. Engine-power goes thru enclosed transmission, straight to traction-tread tires. Non-skid, self-cleaning, geared wheels. Enclosed gear box. Tubular steel handles, chrome plated; plastic handle grips. Built-in folding stand keeps released handles always at work height. Electric-welded body of ¼" cold rolled steel—handsome sun-beige enamel finish. Finely cut grass is discharged from side to eliminate raking-up and messy mulch. Adjustable cut from 1" to 2¾". Wheels set inside cut to allow trimming close to walks; shrub bar at front for safety. George TRACTOR

TRACTOR POWER-UNIT. For summer mowing, winter shoveling, spring gardening or almost any kind of work with the ground, this is the key to economical, easy-and-efficient dispatch. It will till the soil; it will become a self-propelled wheel barrow. Use it to push harrow blades; make it a furrow plow. It scrapes away the most solidly frozen snow and ice. It mows the lawn and makes short work of any kind of undergrowth or weeds . . . becomes the power behind a sickle mower, reel mower, rotary mower, or cultivator-weeder, as the job dictates. No bolts or wrenches are necessary to perform any of these transformations—all attachments are listed on this page and attach to the tractor in less than 30-seconds!

2-HP. Clinton Engine. Husky, 4-cycle engine has recoil starter, no-shock stop button. Gas tank operates 2 hours between fillings. Handle-controlled throttle governs speed to fit job and comfort. Supermarket Checkout Counter Introduced by Kamkap, Inc.

Aimed at toy customers who want a plaything to be fun and educational at the same time is the new Supermarket Check-out Counter made by Kamkap, Inc., 200 Fifth Avenue, NYC.

A miniature reproduction of an actual supermarket check-out counter, the set is complete with a cash register that rings, a counter with a package pull, play money, tiny boxes of grocery products and paper bags. The retail price is $6.98 (slightly higher in the South and west of Denver). Packing is six to a master carton.

The heavy-gauge steel cash register has an action mechanism that rings the bell and opens the drawer when the bar is pushed. When they're playing Supermarket the youngsters select miniature packages, then wheel the shopping cart to counter. The "check-out clerk" uses a lever to pull the purchases toward him, then rings up the sale on the toy cash register.

Parents, Kamkap states, will like the fact that the youngsters learn while they play. They learn how to make selections, how to make change and how to treat one another courteously.
